The American Correctional Association (ACA) is a professional membership organization composed of individuals, agencies, and organizations involved in all facets of the corrections field, including adult and juvenile services, community corrections, probation and parole, and jails. It has approximately 20,000 members in the United States, Canada, and other nations, as well as over 100 chapters and affiliates representing states, professional specialties, or university criminal justice programs. For more than 140 years, the ACA has been the driving force in establishing national correctional policies and advocating safe, humane, and effective correctional operations. Today, the ACA is the world-wide authority on correctional policy and standards, disseminating the latest information and advances to members, policymakers, individual correctional workers, and departments of correction. The ACA was founded in 1870 as the National Prison Association and became the American Prison Association in 1907. At its first meeting in Cincinnati, the assembly elected Rutherford B. Hayes, then governor of Ohio and later U.S. president, as the first president of the Association. At the 1954 annual Congress of Correction in Philadelphia, the name of the American Prison Association was changed to the American Correctional Association, reflecting the changing philosophy of corrections and its increasingly important role in society.

Labor Trafficking has many faces

Construction worker.
Housekeeper.
Farm worker.
Dishwasher.

Across America, men, women, and children are trafficked for their labor. Their employers threaten their lives or loved ones; confiscate their IDs or documents; deny them pay, food, or safe working conditions; or force them to work off illegal debts.

To find out more about labor trafficking and what you can do about it, contact the National Human Trafficking Hotline at: 888-373-7888

Is there Elder Abuse in Your Neighborhood?

Older people can be vulnerable to neglect, abuse, and exploitation—even by relatives and others they trust. We can all do more to help. Check on your older neighbors to see if they are okay, listen to them, and help them stay safe.

If you suspect someone is being mistreated, find help via the National Adult Protective Services Association at: www.napsa-now.org.
