PATTERNS OF BEHAVIOR IN POLICE AND CITIZEN TRANSACTIONS: BOSTON, CHICAGO AND WASHINGTON, DC, 1966 (ICPSR 9086)

SUMMARY: These data have been influential in the development of theories of police behavior. Variables in the collection supply information on the nature and context of encounters between citizens and the police. Data are included on the characteristics and roles of individuals involved in an encounter, relationships among the participants in the encounter, individuals' definitions of the situation after the arrival of police, specific police actions and manner of police behavior during the encounter, and informal characterizations by police of participants involved in the encounter. In cases where offender suspects were involved, information was collected on restraints employed, searches, interrogations, confessions, advisement of rights, booking, and other arrest processes. CLASS IV

UNIVERSE: All encounters between citizens and police in major metropolitan areas of the United States.

SAMPLING: Three sample cities (Chicago, Boston, and Washington, DC) were purposively selected to represent differences in the size, location, degree of control, and type of organization in police departments. Within each city, two police precincts (four in Washington) with high crime rates were selected to represent areas with different race and class compositions. The selected sites were: (1) Boston, MA: precincts Dorchester and Roxbury, (2) Chicago, IL: precincts Fillmore and Town Hall, and (3) Washington, DC: precincts #6, 10, 13, and 14. Stratified probability samples of police tours of duty were drawn. Evening and weekend shifts were overrepresented to maximize the number of encounters observed.

NOTE: Each of the files in this collection is accompanied by an OSIRIS dictionary that provides variable locations and abbreviated variable labels. Codebooks are available for Part 2 and Part 5 only. Facsimiles of the original coding forms are available for Parts 1,2,3, and 5. These forms may provide enough information for some types of analyses depending on the variables of interest. Several of the variables in these files were coded as OSIRIS "multiple response" variables. When a program such as SPSS translates the OSIRIS dictionary, it converts the multiple response categories into variables, thus expanding the total number of variables in the dataset. The number of variables SPSS reports for these files are given below. These data are part of a larger study entitled "Field Surveys III: Studies in Crime and Law Enforcement in Major Metropolitan Areas." ICPSR distributes two related data collections: SURVEY OF VICTIMIZATION AND ATTITUDES TOWARDS CRIME AND LAW ENFORCEMENT IN BOSTON AND CHICAGO, 1966 (ICPSR 9085) and ATTITUDES AND PERCEPTIONS OF POLICE OFFICERS IN BOSTON, CHICAGO, AND WASHINGTON, DC, 1966 (ICPSR 9087).

Patterns of Behavior in Police and Citizen Transactions: Boston, Chicago and Washington, DC, 1966

Purpose of the Study

This research was designed to evaluate transactions and encounters between the police and citizens through observation of their roles, behaviors and decisions. These encounters were recorded by trained observers in the course of regular police shifts.

Methodology

Sources of information:

Data were collected from two sources: (1) field observations by trained observers of mobile and foot patrols and (2) official records of police dispatch calls.

Sample:

Three sample cities (Chicago, Boston, and Washington, DC) were purposively selected to represent differences in the size, location, degree of control, and type of organization in police departments. Within each city, two police precincts (four in Washington) with high crime rates were selected to represent areas with different race and class compositions. The selected sites were: (1) Boston, MA (precincts - Dorchester and Roxbury); (2) Chicago, IL - (precincts - Fillmore and Town Hall); and, (3) Washington, DC (precincts - #6, 10, 13, & 14). Stratified probability samples of police tours of duty were drawn. Evening and weekend shifts were overrepresented to maximize the number of encounters observed. All encounters within a sampled tour of duty were recorded.

Dates of data collection:

1966

Summary of Contents

Special characteristics of the study:

This data set is part of the larger study entitled "Field Surveys III: Studies in Crime and Law Enforcement in Major Metropolitan Areas" that was done for the the President's Commission on Law Enforcement and the Administration of Justice. The data from this portion of the study have been influential in the development of theories of police behavior.

Description of the variables:

Variables contain information about the nature and context of the encounter including characteristics, roles, manner of and relationships between the citizens involved in the encounter; citizen's definition of the situation and police response; characteristics of the situation location; definition of the situation after arrival of police; specific police actions and manner of police behavior during encounter; informal characterizations by police of participants involved in encounter. In cases where offender suspects were involved, information was collected on restraints employed, searches, interrogations, confessions, advisement of rights, booking, and other arrest processes.

Unit of observation:

GENERAL: observer's summary of encounters recorded at the end of each shift
ONVIEW: police-initiated encounter
RUNS: encounter initiated by call for service
CFM: citizen-initiated contact with police in field
CPC: police dispatch record

Note: a sixth file containing records of encounters with citizens who came in person to police stations to mobilize police (Citizen Station Mobilizations) was not available for archiving. Citizen Station Mobilizations were said to have comprised six percent of all types of police-citizen transactions in the study (approximately 340 cases).

Geographic Coverage

Selected police districts in Boston, MA, Chicago, IL, and Washington, DC

File Structure

Data files:*	5
Unit:	Varies by file
Variables:	25 - 752
Cases:	282 - 6172

* Only two of the five files have codebooks (ONVIEW and RUNS). Other than Osiris dictionaries (which provide variable locations and abbreviated variable labels), the only documentation available for the CFM and GENERAL files are facsimiles of the original coding forms. However, they may provide enough information for some types of analyses (depending on the variables of interest). Neither a codebook nor a facsimile coding form is available for the CPC file; only its Osiris dictionary is present.

 Several of the variables were coded as Osiris "multiple response" variables. When a program such as SPSSX translates the Osiris dictionary, it converts the multiple response categories into variables, thus expanding the total number of variables in the data set. SPSSX reports the number of variables for this data set as follows (the Osiris totals are in parentheses):

GENERAL:	679 (679)
ONVIEW:	862 (752)
RUNS:	833 (719)
CFM:	835 (721)
CPC:	25 (25)

---------	--	---	--

Q0-3. TERRITORY OR BEAT

NOTE: Most territory or beat numbers begin with the precinct number. You will begin by eliminating the precinct number. What remains is the beat number. For example, if the beat number is 103 on OV-3, your beat number is 3 and it would be coded 03, since there are two digits for the beat code.

NOTE: You will find three types of territory or beat designations. Code them as follows:

A. Mobile Patrol (scout car, mobile patrol, or car number). These will almost always be a combination of a precinct number (OV-2) and a particular beat car #. Be sure therefore to ALWAYS CHECK BOTH OV-2 AND OV-3 IN CODING BEAT NUMBER: ELIMINATE PRECINCT NUMBER AND CODE ONLY BEAT #.

When the beat number is less than 10 add "0" before the beat number.

To illustrate, if the beat number is 147 and the precinct number is 14, you have beat #7, and it is coded 07 in cols. 13 and 14. If the beat number is 1414 and the precinct is #14, code 14 in cols. 13 and 14.

Additional Code Categories:

- 39. Combination of mobile beats
- 89. Station

Instructions for coding manipulative techniques:

- a. when there is only one number in the box, code that number in the first column and a zero in the second column: e.g., a "1" in the box is coded "10"
- b. when there are two numbers in the box, code the first number in the first column and the second in the second column: e.g., a 1 and a 2 are coded "12"
- c. if there are three numbers in the box, code according to the following:

71 is 1-2-3 in box	85 is 2-4-6 in box
72 is 1-2-4	86 is 2-4-7
73 is 1-2-5	87 is 2-5-6
74 is 1-2-6	88 is 2-5-7
75 is 1-3-4	89 is 2-6-7
76 is 1-3-5	90 is 3-4-5
77 is 1-3-6	91 is 3-4-6
78 is 1-4-6	92 is 3-5-6
79 is 1-5-6	93 is 3-5-7
80 is 1-6-7	94 is 3-6-7
81 is 2-3-4	95 is 4-5-6
82 is 2-3-5	96 is 4-5-7
83 is 2-3-6	97 is 4-6-7
84 is 2-3-7	98 is 5-6-7

- d. if there are four or more numbers in the box, code any three numbers that first appear as a combination in the code: e.g., if you found 2-4-5-6, there is no 2-4-5 but there is a 2-4-6; thus you would code it 85, the code for 2-4-6--make a card for every four or more combination

MANIPULATIVE TECHNIQUE CODE:

- 1. made particularistic appeal: e.g., "I'm Irish, too"
- 2. used humor and jolliness
- 3. used subtle threats
- 4. used silence
- 5. attempted to redirect citizen's focal concern to something else (the "red her-ring" technique)
- 6. used reasoning or problem-solving technique
- 7. other manipulative technique used
- 0. INAP.

Q28K. INTERROGATION INFORMATION

Specify any pertinent information on the interrogation.

- | | | |
|-----|----|---|
| 3 | 1. | officers applied little pressures-- suspect talked voluntarily to clear self: e.g., "the offender carried on the conversation to clear self, felt it was necessary to show he was innocent" |
| 1 | 2. | officers applied little pressure-- bystanders or participants provided information voluntarily or through own conversation: e.g., "citizens conversed with each other trading mutual accusations thus giving information" |
| 8 | 3. | officers applied little pressure-- suspects talked readily and admitted act(s): e.g., "the boys came in and were ready to apologize and admit they did wrong" |
| 7 | 4. | officers applied little pressure since a few questions affirmed their belief(s): e.g., they saw the suspect was drunk and causing the trouble and a few questions affirmed their belief" |
| 7 | 5. | officers applied a moderate amount of pressure: e.g., "the offender denied every thing at the beginning but with repeated questions admitted his part" |
| 3 | 6. | officers applied a great deal of pressure: e.g., "the officer challenged everything he said" |

Q43. POLICE CHARACTERIZATION

If the police verbally characterized the situation after its termination, specify:

PRIORITY CODE

01. where you can beat them, when, and how, e.g., "on the street you can't beat them but when you get them to the station, you can instill some respect in them"
10. anti-Negro remarks: e.g., "god damn skins keep calling in;" "there are 5 million black bastards--how are we going to find those kids;" "these buffalo--he's probably laying some other broad"
11. anti-semitic (Jewish) remarks: e.g., "I hope this guy shoots those kikes"
12. anti-minority remarks, other than Negroes or Jews: "those Puerto Ricans (pork chops) should go back to the island;" "they ought to learn our language if they're going to stay here;" "those hillbillies are so screwed up"
13. anti-deviant remarks: e.g., "that little bastard was a fag for sure;" "he's queer;" "this hotel was dominated by homosexuals;" "I hate handling deranged people"
20. moral disgust or indignation with offender's behavior in situation: e.g., "from what I know, she deserved to be spanked"
21. moral disgust or indignation with complainant's behavior or situation: e.g., "that dog wasn't mad, he only needed some water and a little care;" "that bitch was trying to suck him dry, and he wouldn't buy"
22. evaluative description of offender or offender's situation: e.g., "boy was he stiff"
23. evaluative description of complainant or complainant's situation: e.g., "boy was she filthy"
24. evaluative remarks about police work: e.g., "these jobs always are on the top floor;" "you never get any thanks, just a kick in the ass;" "you wouldn't believe something like that if you didn't see"

CODER: The object of the following seven columns is to ascertain--independently of what the police action was--the manner of the police and the citizen behaviors in response to one another. In other words, the temporal sequence of the ways in which the police and the citizen(s) related to one another is of interest. Often this is not apparent in the booklets because it is not made clear to what a given behavior is a response. If this is the case, do not guess; rather, code '9' or '0', depending upon which is appropriate for any given column, Whenever the behavior of one or the other or both seems to be in response to a recognizable stimulus it is to be coded.

1. yes;offender shows signs of dissatisfaction or hostility with original police course of action; officer seems to adjust his manner or style of behavior--e.g., offender becomes antagonistic when officers are brusque with him and officers subsequently become more pleasant

5

2. yes; offender shows signs of dissatisfaction or hostility with original police course of action; officer seems to adjust his action--e.g., offender becomes hostile when he thinks police are going to arrest him; police then do not arrest and it seems that they may have were it not for the offender's antagonism

5

3. yes; officer seems to depart from the scene relatively quickly because of possible trouble or harassment from persons other than the central offenders--e.g., in response to the behavior of members of the offender group, bystanders, witnesses, etc., officer says, "We had to get out of that one, there was a riot brewing"

4

4. yes; officer seems to refrain from attending to some aspect of the field situation due to possible trouble for himself on the part of a citizen not then involved in the encounter--e.g., officer did not go to the complainant's house because she reported that her husband had a gun

Item Design.	N	Variable Number	Variable Description, Question, and Code
101-104		1	STUDY IDENTIFICATION Code "947" in cols. 1-4.
105-106		2	DECK NUMBER The original study had decks 11-21. Deck number is not needed on tape and is henceforth omitted.
107		3	CITY Code the first digit in blue pencil from the RUN face-sheet--upper right corner. This number is consistent across decks. 1. Boston 2. Chicago 3. Washington, D. C.
108		4	MOBILIZATION TYPE Code the second digit in blue pencil from the RUN face-sheet--upper right corner. (NOTE: Each RUN is coded 0, 1, 2, 5, 6, or 7.)
108-111		5	SCHEDULE NUMBER In Cols. 9-11 code the last three digits in blue pencil from the RUN face-sheet--upper right corner. The schedule number consists in these three numbers plus the mobilization type in col. 8. These numbers are consistent across decks.

Item Design.	N	Variable Number	Variable Description, Question, and Code

113-114		7	QR-3. TERRITORY OR BEAT NOTE: Most territory or beat numbers begin with the precinct number. You will begin by eliminating the precinct number. What remains is the beat number. For example, if the beat number is 103 on R-3, your beat number is 3 and it would be coded 03, since there are two digits for the beat code. NOTE: You will find three types of territory or beat designations. Code them as follows: A. Mobile Patrol (scout car, mobile patrol, or car number). These will almost always be a combination of a precinct number (R-2) and a particular beat car #. Be sure therefore to ALWAYS CHECK BOTH R-2 AND R-3 IN CODING BEAT NUMBER: ELIMINATE PRECINCT NUMBER AND CODE ONLY BEAT #. When the beat number is less than 10 add "0" before the beat number. To illustrate, if the beat number is 147 and the precinct number is 14, you have beat #7, and it is coded 07 in cols. 13 and 14. If the beat number is 1414 and the precinct is #14, code 14 in cols. 13 and 14.

Q2. EXTRA FEATURES

Were there any additional or unusual features of the dispatch that are not captured by a mere specification of the incident?

A. Officer oriented:

01. officer in trouble (sometimes called a 10-1 radio dispatch). Do not code a simple assist of an officer here; the dispatcher must indicate the officer is in trouble, e.g., "officer in trouble..."
02. assist an officer or car, or assist an officer in an event
03. assist a special unit, e.g., "traffic needs assistance"; "fire department needs assistance"; "wait for ambulance to arrive"; etc.

B. Special danger to officer:

10. man with a gun
11. man with a knife or other dangerous weapon
12. woman or child with a gun
13. woman or child with a knife or other dangerous weapon
14. special warning of danger, e.g., "this could be anything"

C. Event in progress or just happened:

20. alarm ringing, e.g., "ADT"; "outside ringer"; "burglar alarm"; etc.
21. burglary in progress (DO NOT code simple housebreaking here--there must be some reference to its going on at the time.) e.g., "B and E at ..."; etc.
22. boys making trouble (CODE ALL events in progress that involve boys making trouble, except fighting and disorderlies.) e.g., "juveniles with B-B guns"; "ball game in X street"; etc.
23. disorderlies (DO NOT judge an incident disorderly; code disorderly only as dispatcher uses phrase or word.) e.g., "disorderly drunks"; "disorderly juveniles"; etc.

Q33K. INTERROGATION INFORMATION

Specify any pertinent information on the interrogation.

18

1. officers applied little pressures-- suspect talked voluntarily to clear self: e.g., "the offender carried on the conversation to clear self, felt it was necessary to show he was innocent"

4

2. officers applied little pressure-- bystanders or participants provided information voluntarily or through own conversation: e.g., "citizens conversed with each other trading mutual accusations thus giving information"

28

3. officers applied little pressure-- suspects talked readily and admitted act(s): e.g., "the boys came in and were ready to apologize and admit they did wrong"

12

4. officers applied little pressure since a few questions affirmed their belief(s): e.g., they saw the suspect was drunk and causing the trouble and a few questions affirmed their belief"

Coder: The object of the following seven columns is to ascertain--independently of what the police action was--the manner of the police and the citizen behaviors in response to one another. In other words, the temporal sequence of the ways in which the police and the citizens related to one another is of interest. Often this is not apparent in the booklets because it is not made clear to what a given behavior is a response. If this is the case, do not guess; rather, code '9' or '0', depending upon which is appropriate for any given column. Whenever the behavior of one or the other or both seems to be in response to a recognizable stimulus it is to be coded.
