Dear Sir:

Enclosed is the final quarterly financial report and twenty-five copies of the final project report for OLEA GRANT 047. I hope you find them to be in order.

The assistance furnished us under this grant has enabled the development of the School of Law Enforcement degree program to proceed at a rate that would have been impossible without your help. I feel that the program is now solid and will continue to grow in size and service to the police service.

The money supplied us through your program has been judiciously used to the best of our ability. For the many services rendered us through your office we can only say, thank you, thank you very much.

Cordially yours,

Eastern Kentucky University
School of Law Enforcement
OLEA Grant Number 047

The School of Law Enforcement was started at Eastern Kentucky University in the spring of 1966 with a class of forty students coming from surrounding police departments and the student body of the University.

Visualizing the difficulty of developing the program without assistance, we filed a proposal with OLEA requesting financial aid to develop and operate a degree program. The proposal was approved and became effective June 15, 1966.

Some of the primary problems to be dealt with in the developmental phase were: How many police personnel are there in Kentucky? How many of these would be interested in higher education? How many could qualify as college students? How many of the University student body would be interested in enrolling in such a degree program? What would be an appropriate name for the program? What should be its immediate objectives; its long range objectives? What courses were necessary in the curriculum to make it sound and appropriate? How many curricula should be developed? Where could qualified staff be located? And finally, was Kentucky ready to accept a program in higher education designed to provide a method of upgrading the interested personnel of its many police departments, corrections personnel, and the personnel of related agencies?

First Period
June 15, 1966 to September 30, 1966

OLEA Grant 047 became effective June 15, 1966, stipulating that the money could be used as salary for a program director, one-half of the salary for a full-time secretary, travel for developmental work, communications, and general essentials for operating the program. The University agreed to house and administer the program, supply one-half of the secretary expense, employ a full-time teaching staff member and vigorously promote the program.

A curriculum leading to an Associate of Arts degree in law enforcement was developed. Relevant deans within the University assisted in selecting subjects and guiding the final arrangement of the curriculum. The International Association of Chiefs of Police supplied a consultant who made suggestions and assisted in various ways with the compilation of a temporary curriculum. The recommendations of the American Association of Police Professors were considered, especially regarding their suggestion on the percentage of law enforcement subjects to be used in an AA degree curriculum. Catalogs and other information were sought from most of the police science programs throughout the United States. Most schools contacted supplied the requested information and a study of the various programs was of great help in selecting law enforcement subjects that would make this program somewhat uniform with other programs, and at the same time, provide what we felt was a solid mass of information that would best prepare the graduate for work in the field of law enforcement. A curriculum of 69 semester hours was developed that satisfied the University requirements, the general education needs, and contained 31 semester hours of law enforcement subjects. The curriculum was rather rigid with very little choice being left to the student (sample attached).

Curricula were developed leading to the associate degree in three other areas. These were of a temporary nature and will need continuous revision until a satisfactory arrangement is reached. The associate degree was established in Juvenile, Corrections, and Industrial Security (copies attached).

A curriculum leading to a Bachelor of Science degree was developed and made available to students at the beginning of the program. The same procedure was followed as with the associate degrees. A total of 131 semester hours comprised the program with 42 hours in law enforcement. Students majoring in law enforcement are requested to minor in sociology, psychology, business or political science. It is felt that these areas will best prepare the graduate to work satisfactorily in the field of law enforcement.

After identifying the titles given to various programs throughout the nation, it was decided to identify this program as a School of Law Enforcement, the reasoning being that a school would permit more flexibility than a department, thus permitting wider activity as the need for this activity arises. The title "School of Law Enforcement" seemed to encompass the entire area of criminal justice rather than limiting it to either police, corrections or courts. It is felt that service toward improvement must be rendered in all three areas and that under a broad title such service would be possible.

The establishment of a School of Law Enforcement, acceptance of temporary curricula leading to an associate degree in Law Enforcement, Juvenile, Corrections, Industrial Security, and a curriculum leading to a Bachelor of Science Degree was approved by the University and the Board of Regents, thus putting us into operation.

The search for staff began. A graduate of the School of Police Administration and Public Safety at Michigan State University was employed as a full-time faculty member. The Director of the State Police Crime Laboratory was employed part time to teach criminalistics. A retired F.B.I. agent was employed part time to teach law courses.

A semester schedule offering eight courses or 24 semester hours was submitted, approved and put into operation for the fall semester 1966. A total of 138 students enrolled; ninety-three freshmen and forty-five upper classmen.

An extension class was established at Louisville, Kentucky, serving officers from the Louisville, Jefferson County, Shively, St. Mathews and State Police departments.

Second Period

October 1, 1966 to December 31, 1966

The extension class in Louisville created an interest among police personnel in that area and a request for more courses. A second class was organized so that a total of six semester hours was available. Classes were offered in the evening from 6 to 9 P.M. The Louisville Department made available their classroom for our use two evenings each week. Mr. Robert C. Stone was secured as a part-time teacher to handle one Louisville class. Louisville is one hundred miles from the University campus.

Two conferences were organized and held on campus. Police, sheriffs and others were invited. One conference dealt with records and the other with budget. Attendance at these conferences was not such that it encouraged continued effort in this direction unless a different approach was used. It was apparent that some police officials hold a "fear" of the college campus. It is a challenge to destroy this fear and bring police people and the academic programs closer together. I plan the development of a short course program to be operated on a systematic basis.

A constant effort was made to acquaint all police people in the state with the law enforcement educational program. Contact was made with the Kentucky Peace Officers' Association, The Fraternal Order of Police, the Northern Kentucky Chiefs Association and others. Complete cooperation had been originally obtained from the Department of Public Safety, the Louisville Department, the Lexington Department and others. Brochures, class announcements and letters of general information were forwarded to all known departments.

A survey was made of all police departments in the state in an attempt to determine how many officers there were, what their educational status was and how many would be interested in attending an academic program toward either an associate degree or a bachelors degree (a copy of questionnaire attached). This information was needed to determine future plans for development of the School and to satisfy a stipulation from OLEA. Response from the departments was unsatisfactory, many did not respond at all; others answered only certain questions. Conclusions drawn from this survey were at best incomplete. However, there were enough positive replies to indicate that several police officers throughout the state were interested in pursuing a degree program in law enforcement.

Efforts were made to recruit high school graduates by attending as many career days as possible and explaining the program along with employment opportunities. I attended high school counselors' meetings to familiarize them with the program. I spoke to numerous civic clubs to promote the school.

Third Period

January 1, 1967 to February 15, 1967

A spring semester schedule of classes was offered totaling 39 semester hours or 13 separate courses. One hundred and seventy six students were enrolled showing a progressive increase in new students.

An extension class was developed at Hazard, Kentucky, with 20 police people enrolling.

Mr. James Chenault, circuit judge for this district, was employed as a part-time teacher to handle one class.

Mr. Paul Seyfrit of the psychology department was borrowed to teach one course - Psychology for Police Officers. It became evident that more permanent staff would be needed for the school year 1967-68.

OLEA grant for assistance to students provided $2500. A committee of four people was created to determine the best way for distributing this money to students so that a small amount of money could be used to benefit a large number of students. The committee members were: Dean of Admissions, Dean of the College of Applied Arts and Technology, Director of the Kentucky

Peace Officers' Standards and Training Council, and Director of the School of Law Enforcement.

The committee decided that the money should be divided into 62 portions of $40 each and awarded to students. This permitted 25 awards of $40 each to be made during the spring semester and the fall semester and twelve awards to be made during the summer semester. Thus, 62 students were aided over a three semester period. Each student needing and desiring financial assistance filed a request. The committee reviewed each request, decided on those most deserving, and requested the Student Aid Committee of the University to award the $40 to the student indicated (copies of forms used attached).

Fourth Period

February 16, 1967 to May 15, 1967

During this spring semester a program of thirty semester hours was conducted on campus. Six hours were offered in evening classes to benefit those students who could attend college only in the evening. Three classes or nine hours were offered off campus, two classes in Louisville and one in Hazard.

At this time the University began to think of a new facility to house the School of Law Enforcement. I met with relevant officials and discussed the space needed to house our program. It was decided that the program would be allotted space in the new physical education building planned for completion in 1970. In the meantime, the swift growth of the School required that it be moved to temporary quarters in the University building.

Efforts were made to secure two additional full-time faculty members for employment for the fall semester 1967. A number of prospects were contacted and two people, both with law degrees, appeared to most nearly fill our needs. These contacts were cultivated and eventually employed.

Fifth Period

May 16, 1967 to August 15, 1967

The first student to earn an associate degree was graduated at the end of the spring semester. He was a working police officer employed by the Fayette County Police Department. The President of the University halted the graduation procedure to recognize this student as the first graduate of the Law Enforcement School. This kind of support from the University has given the School a very favorable climate in which to develop.

A proposal was submitted to OLEA requesting assistance in developing a cooperative training program with the Department of Corrections. The School of Law Enforcement would work with the leaders of the Department of Corrections to establish a satisfactory training program for all its personnel.

A proposal was submitted under Title I of the Higher Education Act for assistance in promoting a series of one-day conferences in Central and Eastern Kentucky. These conferences would bring together judges, attorneys, sheriffs and police to discuss the problems of case preparation, pre-trial conferences, post-trial conferences and other problems associated with the obvious lack of cooperation between concerned agencies during the prosecution process.

A proposal was submitted to OLEA requesting assistance in providing a series of four training conferences in cooperation with the State Police. These conferences were scheduled on the University campus and would be open to all police officers who could attend. The four topics to be treated have proved especially vexing to law enforcement officers.

All of the proposals referred to above were approved.

Two classes or a total of six hours were offered during the summer term. A total of fifty students attended these classes. These classes are offered in a unique way that permits police personnel to attend them by using their vacation time or securing a brief leave. These classes are scheduled from 8 A.M. to 12 Noon each day, Monday through Friday for thirteen school days. This arrangement has proved very popular with police personnel that are unable to attend classes during regular semesters. Dormitory rooms are available during the summer term so that there is no problem of housing the students.

Sixth Period

August 16, 1967 to November 15, 1967

Two full-time faculty members were employed effective September 1, 1967. Mr. B. C. Brown, a retired Federal Bureau of Investigation agent with twenty-six years experience, holding degrees in science and law was employed. Mr. James W. Deese, holding the bachelors and masters degrees in law from the University of Mississippi was employed.

Mr. Brett Scott was employed to direct the corrections training project being developed under OLEA Grant Number 184.

The School now has five full-time faculty and four part-time faculty. Two members are middle age with several years of experience in actual law enforcement. Three of the members are younger men with little or no experience in actual enforcement. This seems to be a healthy combination of teaching personnel from the student standpoint. It should expose the student to the modern liberal attitude toward enforcement and to the more conservative attitude. Thus, the student is exposed to both philosophies and has the opportunity to choose.

A new extension class was developed at Prestonsburg, Kentucky with nineteen students enrolling. This class is taught one night each week from 6 P.M. to 9 P.M. This brings the total number of extension classes to four. Police interest in higher education indicated that other extension classes can be developed as teaching faculty becomes available.

Enrollment for the fall semester shows 222 students now majoring in law enforcement. The constant increase in enrollment from semester to semester indicates the genuine interest of law enforcement officers in improving themselves and also a strong interest from the regular college student to enter a career of law enforcement. Enrollment at this point far exceeds what I expected it to be.

Arrangements have been made with the State Police to provide travel expense for their officers while attending classes. Arrangements have been made with the Fayette County Patrol to provide travel expense for their officers while attending classes. A tentative agreement has been made with the State Police for their officers to be placed on special assignment, with full salary, to attend school one semester when the officer has reached a position where he can earn his bachelors degree in a semester's work by carrying a full load. This will affect one student during the spring semester 1968.

Arrangements have been completed with the Hazard city government for the city to pay all expenses, both books and tuition, for their officers that attend our extension in that city. Efforts are being made to develop an extension class in Paducah with the same arrangement. The city would pay for books and tuition for its officers that attend class. It now appears that this arrangement will not encounter any opposition.

I have followed the practice of identifying any department in the nation that is paying the expenses of its personnel while they pursue a college degree or any department that is providing a raise in salary, regardless of the amount, to an officer who earns a given number of hours in a law enforcement program. This information is reproduced in sufficient quantity so it can be mailed out to the police chiefs in the state. Better results have been obtained from this procedure than was anticipated. In the future, I expect more departments to start bearing the expense of their officers while these officers attend the School of Law Enforcement.

To bring the School closer to the various departments throughout the state, I have offered assistance to their training programs in any way that we can help. Faculty from the School participates in their training programs without charge. We use this opportunity to sell our program. We have prepared promotional examinations, done limited surveys, etc., to convince the police community of our objective - improving police service in Kentucky.

A schedule of eleven classes was offered on campus and four classes off campus for a total of forty-five semester hours this semester. Due to the unexpected rapid growth of the School there is some difficulty in securing class room space.

The first group of transfer students from junior college police science programs have enrolled. Graduates of the two-year programs in Florida, Michigan and New York are coming here to complete their bachelors degree. Due to the similarity of curricula between the various schools, we are experiencing very little difficulty with the transfer student. There will be very little loss of credits for the transfer student. Three foreign students are now enrolled.

Seventh Period (Final Period)

November 16, 1967 to February 15, 1968

Ground has been broken for a new building that will house the School of Law Enforcement. The School has been allotted six class rooms and twelve offices plus storage space. Unless there are construction problems, the building should be completed in 1970.

Nine classes were scheduled on campus for the spring semester and seven classes were scheduled off campus for a total offering of forty-eight semester hours. Two of the on-campus classes have over fifty students enrolled. I consider this too large for a class, but due to the shortage of instructors, was unable to reduce the student number.

Two extension classes were developed at Paducah, Kentucky. The city is paying all tuition and book expense for the officers enrolled in class. One class is taught in the afternoon from 1 P.M. to 4 P.M. and the second class is in the evening from 6 P.M. to 9 P.M. A total of forty-nine people are enrolled in the two classes. Because of the distance from the University to Paducah, it is necessary to supply the instructor by airplane. The instructor teaches two classes and returns to Richmond on Friday.

We are currently working on a program to establish centers throughout the state that would serve as extension centers of the University for the purpose of offering an associate degree in law enforcement to police officers who are interested in attending a program, but who cannot come to the University campus. It is necessary to secure approval from the Southern Association of Colleges and Universities before such a program can be effected. We have filed the request and are currently awaiting their reply. I feel it is a very important program if we are to render maximum service to the police community. Police personnel have strong tenure and do not retire until they are fifty-five years old or older. This means the middle age group who are now employed will remain as policemen for fifteen to twenty years. If they are not helped, we seem to be postponing improvement for that period of time. The average policeman can attend class if it is located within reasonable driving distance. However, in the majority of cases he cannot leave the job to attend a university for a complete semester. This seems to place a responsibility on a program such as ours to take the program to the student. The student can acquire his general education courses from a local college and his law enforcement courses through our extension classes. This would permit him to earn an associate degree in law enforcement while actually earning residence at the local college. Such a program seems reasonable. I feel sure we will be permitted to proceed.

Faculty members of the School of Law Enforcement are currently traveling over seventeen hundred miles per week to serve our seven extension classes. When selecting faculty I make it a condition of employment that he be willing to teach a class off campus.

At the close of OLEA Grant Number 047, February 15, 1968

there were 369 students enrolled in the program as majors. This reflects a very fast growth from the forty people enrolled at the beginning of the program. I am pleased with the development of the program over the past twenty months. The School of Law Enforcement is very much indebted to OLEA for the financial assistance rendered. It is our hope that OLEA can continue to function in its role of assisting degree programs to develop. The only solution to the police problem is the improvement of present personnel and college preparation for future personnel.

EASTERN KENTUCKY UNIVERSITY

COLLEGE OF APPLIED ARTS AND TECHNOLOGY
 School of Law Enforcement

October 24, 1966

As you are no doubt aware, Eastern Kentucky University was awarded a federal grant for the establishment of both the two year and four year programs in law enforcement. This grant not only represents a milestone for the state but is a first for the nation. Eastern Kentucky University was the first university to receive federal funds under the Law Enforcement Assistance Act to establish a degree program.

Kentucky is experiencing a new concept in law enforcement - police education. Our state, with your professional interest and encouragement now has the opportunity and resources to move forward in this most critical area. Thus with your interest and insight you are in a position to not only see the immediate value of such a program, but to envision its future potential. We therefore turn to you, for assistance in determining a realistic potential of this program.

The enclosed questionnaire is an attempt to establish the enrollment potential and the current level of training that exist within our state. By completing and returning the questionnaire, you have assisted not only this University, but have revealed your professional concern and interest in law enforcement. In other words, you have given the necessary support to the forward progress of this most vital arm in Administration of Justice within the Commonwealth. Will you please complete the enclosed questionnaire and return it to the School of Law Enforcement, Eastern Kentucky University, Richmond, Kentucky.

We will be glad to furnish you a copy of the findings if you desire.

Sincerely,

Robert W. Posey
 Director

Enclosure

In an attempt to establish a projection of future enrollment of active Police Officers within the state (city and county level) a study was conducted. In the fall of 1966, a questionnaire was forwarded to the Chiefs of Police in cities in all classes (one thru five, 162 questionnaires) and to four County Police Agencies. A total of 166 questionnaires were mailed (not including followup letters), fifty-one were completed and returned, for an average response of 30.00 percent.

CLASS OF CITY	NO. OF CITIES IN CLASSIFICATION	RESPONSES RECEIVED	PERCENT AVERAGED
1	1	1	100%
2	8	7	85.5
3	16	12	75.00
4	62	17	27.4
5	71	6	8.5
County Police	4	4	100
TOTALS	166	51	30.0%

Since a low response was received, an accurate estimate to establish future enrollment was not possible. Therefore the following is presented as only possible projection with some of the interested personnel already enrolled with the University.

The fifty-one responding agencies employes a total of 1758 sworn personnel (Table 2), with only 10 percent of these individuals reflecting an interest in Law Enforcement Education.
