This booklet contains a listing and explanation of all North Carolina State Government agencies involved in some way with the issue of alcohol or other drugs. This includes not only the areas of prevention, intervention, referral, treatment and enforcement; but also the areas of regulation, research, advisory, coordination and grant management.

Not all agencies listed herein are involved in the issue of alcohol or other drugs one hundred percent of their time; nevertheless, it is important to include them because they are a part of our State's overall involvement.

Also included in this booklet is a listing of these agencies by activity, e.g., prevention, treatment, etc; and a budgetary analysis -- as complete as possible at the time of this second printing.

We hope this information will further facilitate coordination among the respective agencies, and will assist the North Carolina Drug Cabinet and others in determining the State's best response to the growing problem of alcohol and other drug use/abuse.

Thank you for your help in putting this booklet together.

AGENCY: Department of Administration
Office of Inter-Governmental Relations

PROGRAM TITLE: Office of Inter-Governmental Relations

PROGRAM SUMMARY:

The Office of Inter-Governmental Relations is responsible for a number of state-local and state-federal functions. The office was created last fall by the combination of several inter-governmental activities that had been located throughout the department and in the Governor's office into a single unit. The office operates the State Clearinghouse which is the contact for inter-governmental review. The agency coordinates notification to state and local officials of proposed federal actions and directs the response to that information to the appropriate agency. The process avoids different agencies duplicating efforts and ensures that proposed actions do not take place without state and local officials knowing about them and having a chance to comment on how that action may affect their jurisdiction. The agency tries to coordinate the state's position on a variety of federal issues and actions particularly in conjunction with multi-state organizations, such as, the Local Government Advocacy Council, National Governor's Association and the Southern Growth Policies Board. The agency operates the Appalachian Regional Commission program and works with local governments and regional councils. SPOTLIGHT is a newsletter published every other month by the Office of Inter-governmental Relations and highlights the partnership between state and federal government.

PROGRAM IMPACT:

Inter-governmental coordinating mechanisms for state government and work with other state agencies and local governments.

PROGRAM TITLE: Students Against Driving Drunk (SADD)

PROGRAM SUMMARY:

The Youth Advocacy and Involvement Office (YAIIO) represents the interests of North Carolina's children and youth to state government policy makers.

Students Against Driving Drunk (SADD) helps to coordinate local efforts to reduce the number of alcohol and drug related accidents among teenage drivers. Through the use of positive peer pressure, SADD and its' local chapters seek to drive home the message that "friends don't let friends drive drunk." The SADD program provides local chapters with information on starting and maintaining a chapter, participating in special events sponsored by clubs and being a resource for all members.

PROGRAM IMPACT:

There are currently 310 local SADD chapters in 96 of the state's 100 counties. Although most of these chapters are located in high schools, an increasing number of chapters are being started at junior high and elementary schools. SADD members are also responsible for starting peer counseling programs, working with local youth councils, and conducting Project Graduation.

It may be mandated on an inpatient basis, again in a public or private facility.

They are also concerned with:

- . Sale of alcoholic beverages to underaged persons
- . Traditional surveillance of licensed alcohol outlets by ALE agents
- . The training of servers of alcoholic beverages to sensitize them to the under-age problem (DWI Source Prevention Program).

PROGRAM IMPACT:

During fiscal year 1987-88, ALE had an average of 78 field agents and 12 field supervisors who gave 898 seminars attended by 9,752 servers from 2,995 outlets.

PROGRAM TITLE: Community Services Work Program (CSWP)

PROGRAM SUMMARY:

The program is set up to handle clients referred from the courts on the Parole Commission. The offender is required by the court as part of his punishment to complete a certain amount of community service. The program interviews the client and places them within the community where the clients skills can be used most advantageously. The program tries to insure that the client and the community both have a positive, relevant and meaningful free work experience. The offenders hours vary from 24 to 1,000 hours and in most instances the hours are predetermined by the courts. Some community service hours are determined by the General Statutes, such as, the DWI offender at levels five, four and three must serve 24, 48 and 72 hours respectively. The DWI offender at level five must serve (24 hours), level four must serve (48 hours) and level three must serve (72 hours). Levels one and two may also be required to do community service work but the number of hours is determined by the judge. The program also places parolees who must perform 32 hours per month community service for each month they would have served in prison. Counselling is not a service offered through the CSWP. The program does make referrals to other agencies for the client if they feel it will be beneficial. However, it is not mandatory for the offender to take advantage of the referral.

The Community Services Work program is very willing to assist, advise and provide services for other agencies within the state and the community. The program recently made 16,562 "Say No to Drugs" badges for Davidson County elementary and middle schools to be used during their Drug Awareness Week. The CSWP clients also packaged the badges and prepared them for distribution. Davidson County provided the materials for the badges, however, the CSWP provided the free labor and actual hands on services. Some of their clients have had problems with alcohol and substance abuse. The clients have multiple skills in all areas of the work force, such as, plumbing, carpentry, manual labor, clerical, etc.

PROGRAM IMPACT:

Provide alternatives in sentencing for the courts and Parole Commission. Also, while administering a service to the court CSWP hopes to provide a positive and meaningful experience for the community and the client.

PROGRAM TITLE: Research and Policy Recommendations

PROGRAM SUMMARY:

The Governor's Crime Commission is mandated to submit a comprehensive plan according to federal statutes. The statutes dictate that they collect information from other agencies to get a handle on the drug problem in North Carolina. The Crime Commission holds public hearings and utilizes research performed by other agencies, such as, the State Bureau of Investigation, the North Carolina Drug Cabinet, Department of Education, law enforcement agencies, Department of Human Resources - Substance Abuse section. The research relates to topics such as, drug arrests and eradication, number of drug related deaths in North Carolina, etc.

Once the results of the research and public hearings are reviewed, the Crime Commission identifies and defines the problem, and develops strategies to make it consistent with federal legislation. After approval is received from the federal government, the strategies are prioritized and the Commission accepts proposals from criminal justice agencies for the grants.

PROGRAM TITLE: Injury Control Branch

PROGRAM SUMMARY:

On January 12, 1989, the Injury Control Branch (ICB) was created within the Epidemiology Section of the North Carolina Division of Health Services. The ICB incorporated the programs of the existing Highway Safety Branch and added a new program. The existing programs were the Driver Medical Evaluation Program and the Chemical Tests for Alcohol Program. The Injury Prevention Program will supplement these activities by working to prevent not only motor vehicle injuries but other types of intentional and unintentional injuries as well. Without listing the specific activities of these three programs, the overall strategy of the ICB for preventing injuries can be summarized as five general functions: coordination, setting priorities, continuity, technical assistance, and training. Perhaps the most important of these is coordination. Injury prevention programs have existed in North Carolina for many years within the Division of Health Services, in academic centers, in local health departments, and in many other organizations as well. Injury control requires an interdisciplinary approach. The ICB will benefit from the expert assistance of other groups, and these groups in turn can help us to spread our expertise and resources much further than we could on our own. The second function of the ICB will be to set priorities for itself to determine the order in which specific types of injuries and prevention strategies will be targeted. These priorities will be determined by a variety of factors, including grant protocols, existing programs, expertise, state and local needs, and the recommendations of the Governor's Task Force on Injury Prevention and Control. Thirdly, the ICB will sustain many programs that have limited funding or can no longer be supported by other agencies. Fourthly, the ICB will provide technical assistance to local health departments and to the Division of Health Services. Finally, training will be emphasized in the ICB. The branch will train chemical analysts, technical/maintenance supervisors, hearing officers, students in the U.N.C. Schools of Medicine and Public Health, and county health department personnel in injury control. Personnel within the Branch will be expected to maintain and improve their skills as well.

PROGRAM IMPACT:

The functions of the ICB may change as it grows and develops. The mission of the ICB will be to plan, develop, evaluate, and coordinate injury control projects. The paramount interest is to prevent injuries, not to perpetuate programs, therefore, there will be continuous changes to determine what methods work.

PROGRAM TITLE: Maternal and Child Health

PROGRAM SUMMARY:

The local Health Department (HD) has several maternal and child care programs. The HD funds counties; and provides medical care guidelines and technical assistance to the counties in giving the care. The Maternal Health Program provides funds to all 100 counties to assure services and prenatal care to low income pregnant women. The emphasis is on mothers with medical complications. The HD funds 17 high risk maternity clinics covering all 100 counties which make available an Obstetrician, a maternity nurse, a Social Worker, a nutritionist and clerical support to make sure the mothers get on medicaid, WIC, and other public support programs. The emphasis is for medical complications. When a patient is identified as a drug user, the HD attempts to get them into a drug treatment and support program as needed. The chief concern is Fetal Alcohol Syndrome. The HD identified a group of 12 hospitals in 10 communities throughout the state to serve as regional perinatal centers which give obstetrical and newborn intensive care to very high risk mothers and babies. The Professional Outreach Education consists of a group of 13 Nurse Educators located in major medical centers throughout the state who work with doctors, hospitals and HDs to determine the clients' need for medical and other health education and to bring the educational programs to the health care professionals who need them. Sudden Infant Death Syndrome (SIDS) program is funded in 100 counties by the HD to provide training, counselling and emotional support to families who have experienced SIDS. Child Health Clinics are funded in all 100 counties. They provide well child visits, developmental assessments and immunizations to low income children, and refer them to physicians for medical care. The Early Periodic Screening and Detection Treatment (EPSDT) is a part of this program. Day Care programs are funded by the HD to provide clinical guidelines and technical assistance to day care programs throughout the state in maintaining healthy children in day care. The Lead Screening Clinics screen for the child's exposure to lead in it's environment by testing the blood for lead exposure and how to reduce the exposure. The Adolescent Pregnancy Prevention as part of the 32 special projects grants to communities across the state helping them to identify resources in their community to assist in reducing adolescent pregnancy.

PROGRAM IMPACT:

The goal is to have healthy mothers and children with emphasis on preventive health services. During the latest calendar year 29,000 pregnant women were served in the Health Departments.

PROGRAM TITLE: Sexually Transmitted Disease Control

PROGRAM SUMMARY:

The North Carolina Sexually Transmitted Disease Control Program attempts to prevent the spread of and resultant complications from syphilis and gonorrhea throughout the state by providing and/or supporting services for the identification, treatment, and epidemiologic follow-up of cases. Highly trained interviewer/investigator personnel are assigned to Department of Human Resources Regional Offices and provide contact interview and investigation services for all early, infectious syphilis and priority gonorrhea cases, including PPNG and CMRNG resistant cases, reported from the counties within their respective regions. In addition, the STD Control Program is responsible for: (1) providing field follow-up of persons with reactive serologic tests for syphilis to assure appropriate medical attention is given; (2) providing technical support and information to counties, including workshops on gonorrhea and chlamydia counseling and sex partner referral; and (3) coordinating a systematic method for the collection, compilation and interpretation of pertinent disease specific data. A program designed to assist teachers in presenting STD education as a part of the school curriculum has been developed and made available to all county school systems. Workshops to train teachers in the use of the curriculum guide are provided. Information and materials on other sexually transmitted diseases such as herpes, AIDS, chlamydial infections, urethritis, monilia, etc., are provided upon request. Information items are made available to newspapers, radio and television stations, and organizations for dissemination to the general public.

. Employment Related Activities
. Prevention and Child Development Activities

PROGRAM SUMMARY:

The Council on Developmental Disabilities is a planning body composed of persons with disabilities, family members of persons with disabilities and respective service providers. The Council focuses on three program areas: Alternative Living Arrangement Activities, Employment Related Activities, and Prevention and Child Development Activities.

PROGRAM IMPACT:

In 1985, the Council developed a statewide plan for prevention of developmental disabilities. Included are concerns about the effects of alcohol and substance abuse by women of child-bearing age. Public education regarding Fetal Alcohol Syndrome and the harmful effects of drug abuse, particularly cocaine, remain high priority items in this plan.

The Council has reflected this interest in current priorities for the 1990-91 Developmental Disabilities State Plan. Included are activities which directly relate to this population: an objective to implement at least one community program for pregnant women who are substance abusers and their affected children; and an additional objective to develop a resource guide for this population.

Mental Health Study Commission

PROGRAM TITLE: Mental Health Study Commission

PROGRAM SUMMARY:

The Mental Health Study Commission was originally established by resolution of the General Assembly in 1973 to study the delivery of mental health, mental retardation, alcohol and other related services. The Commission has been reauthorized to continue every two years since its inception. During this tenure, the Commission has included twenty-four members, eight appointed each by the Governor, by the Lt. Governor and the N.C. Speaker of the House. During the 1987-89 period, the Commission has been co-chaired by Senator Kenneth C. Royall, Jr. and Representative James W. Crawford. The primary priority for the Mental Health Study Commission during the 1987-89 biennium was to "examine the needs of N.C. citizens suffering from severe and persistent mental illness and to develop a comprehensive plan to provide a continuum of care to respond to those needs." The issues identified for study and inclusion in the plan reflect the complexity of this task: the need for community based services; the quality of care and future role of regional psychiatric facilities; appropriate services for patients with serious, criminal or violent behavior problems; continuity of care and interagency coordination of services; mental health insurance coverage; and other relevant concerns. In order to meet the stated objectives, the Commission formed four committees.

PROGRAM IMPACT:

Over the last four years, the Commission has developed recommendations regarding statewide plans including: child mental health, youth substance abuse, developmental disabilities, chronic mental illness, and other significant issues related to mental health, mental retardation and substance abuse. Commission recommendations to the Governor and to the General Assembly may result in policy changes, funding priorities, and legislative changes. Some of the recommendations supported by the Mental Health Study Commission for 1987-89 include reauthorization of the Mental Health Study Commission for the next biennium; implementation of the N.C. Comprehensive Long Range Plan for Persons with Severe and Persistent Mental Illness; strategies to reduce violent incidents in state operated psychiatric facilities; to improve mental health services in the North Carolina criminal justice system; legislation to assure access to health benefits for persons with a history of mental illness or chemical dependency at least as favorable as that for persons with other physical illnesses and continued study of expanding mental health insurance benefits.

PROGRAM TITLE: State Employees' Assistance Program (EAP)

The intent of the program is to help employees live and work more productively by providing professional guidance in overcoming personal problems, especially when those problems are affecting job performance.

By using the EAP, employees and their family members can receive assessment with complete confidentiality and at no cost to the employee.

The ultimate goal is a happier and more productive employee whose life and work unit is back in balance.

PROGRAM IMPACT:

The program is now completing it's second year of statewide expansion.

Support of the program by management and employees alike continues.

The service is formally in place now with 22 of our agencies and universities, and planning is underway with another 17.

Current coverage is over 57,387 employees.

Last year's utilization was matched by January of this year. Services will be provided to over 1,068 employees this year. This is an additional 75% increase over the first year of statewide expansion. Current services also indicate that over 1,200 employees will use the service in the coming fiscal year.

The program has improved it's ability to address alcohol and drug problems among state employees and family members. There were 114 persons with this problem seen last year and 222 will be seen this fiscal year. This represents a 95% increase in that problem area alone.
