The Honorable Patrick J. Ungaro
Mayor
City of Youngstown

Dear Mayor Ungaro,

It is my privilege to submit the 1992 Annual Report for the Youngstown Police Department.

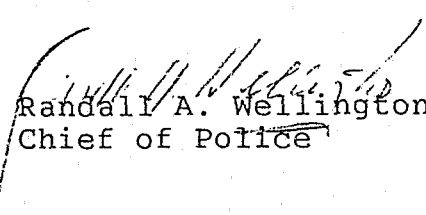

Crime decreased substantially in 1992 as compared with 1991. The Crime Index, which consists of eight of the most serious criminal offenses, decreased 12% from the previous year. The largest decrease in the Part I Offense was the 26% decrease in Aggravated Assault and the 23% decrease in Burglary.

The number of calls for police service decreased 3.5%. A total of 95,358 calls were dispatched in 1992 compared to 98,360 in 1991; the decrease in calls for service is the first since 1988.

Drug enforcement remains the top priority for the Police Department as it battles crack cocaine trafficking in the city. Crack house raids increased 65% in 1992 with 155 raids in 1991 compared to 256 raids in 1992.

I wish to thank you, your staff, members of City Council, and the citizens of Youngstown for the cooperation and support given to the Youngstown Police Department in 1992.

Sincerely,

Randall A. Wellington
Chief of Police

Dedication

The Patrol or Uniform Division is the basic element of enforcement power in a police department. It represents the front line where policies and plans are translated into action. This encompasses the prevention and suppression of crime, preservation of law and order, and the protection of life and property.

The Patrol Division is a seven-days-a-week, 24 hour guardian of the city. When the 9 to 5 government offices close, the Patrol Division takes care of any and all needs of the city. In most instances, the patrol officers are the first to arrive at the scene of emergencies and must make quick decisions that can affect cases years later.

Most often, a patrol officer dealing with the citizen leaves a lasting impression of our police services with that citizen. All other components are ancillary to the Patrol Division — assisting with support in the final stages of most cases. Patrol officers are first to deal with unexpected, tragic, and very difficult situations.

The Patrol Division is often taken for granted because of their constant presence and many times supervision fails to give them the proper recognition. For this reason, our 1992 annual report is dedicated to the "Thin Blue Line", the Youngstown Police Department's Patrol Division.

PATROL

The various units that constitute the department's overall patrol function consist of 128 sworn officers and 12 civilians. These units are the Patrol Divisions, which includes the Traffic Bureau, the Particular Problems Interdiction Team, the Community Oriented Police Service, and the Youngstown Metropolitan Housing Authority Unit.

Officers assigned to the Patrol Divisions provide service by: preventive patrol oriented toward prevention of crimes and accidents, and the maintenance of public order; responding to called for services; and the investigation of crimes and arrest of offenders.

Officers of the Traffic Bureau focus on traffic enforcement and accident investigation, parking violations, stolen vehicle investigations and abandoned vehicles.

The P.P.I. Team's objectives coincide with those of the Patrol Divisions; however the team generally does not handle routine calls for service. They are therefore free to be more aggressive and take the offensive against street corner violence.

The Community Oriented Police Service (page 22) is bringing personalization back to police work. As the regular "beat cops" of the Patrol Divisions became so busy answering routine calls for service, the only people getting to know them were the criminals.

Officers of the Youngstown Metropolitan Housing Authority unit, patrol and handle calls mostly within the city's five public housing developments.

Most of the manpower for these specialty units came from the Patrol Divisions, leaving fewer officers to handle routine calls for service. However, as a result of these units' activities, there were fewer calls for service to handle. Another benefit was a substantial decline in Part I crimes of violence.

DETECTIVE DIVISION

The main function of the Detective Division is the follow-up investigation of unsolved crimes, the apprehension of offenders, and the recovery of stolen property. The investigative arms of the Detective Division are the Criminal Investigations North and South Bureaus and the Juvenile Bureau. The Commander of the Detective Division is also responsible for the administration of the Auxiliary Services Bureau which consists of the Index, Computer Support, Records, Jail, and Crime Laboratory Units.

SUPPORT SERVICE DIVISION

The Support Service Division is responsible for maintaining the operating budget of the Police Department, personnel and payroll records. The Support Service Division also administers the purchase and upkeep of Department equipment. The Auxiliary Police Bureau is also a part of the Support Service Division.

STAFF DIVISION

The Staff Division is responsible for all training of Department personnel along with the Department's crime prevention function. The Staff Division also maintains the Crime Stoppers Association. The Commander of the Staff Division has the added responsibility of overseeing the Weapons Unit and Chaplaincy Corps.

CHIEF

In addition to overseeing the six Divisions, the Chief of Police directly supervises the Staff Inspector and the Officers in Charge of the Tactical Response Team, Particular Problems Interdiction Team, and Special Investigation Unit.

Staff Inspector

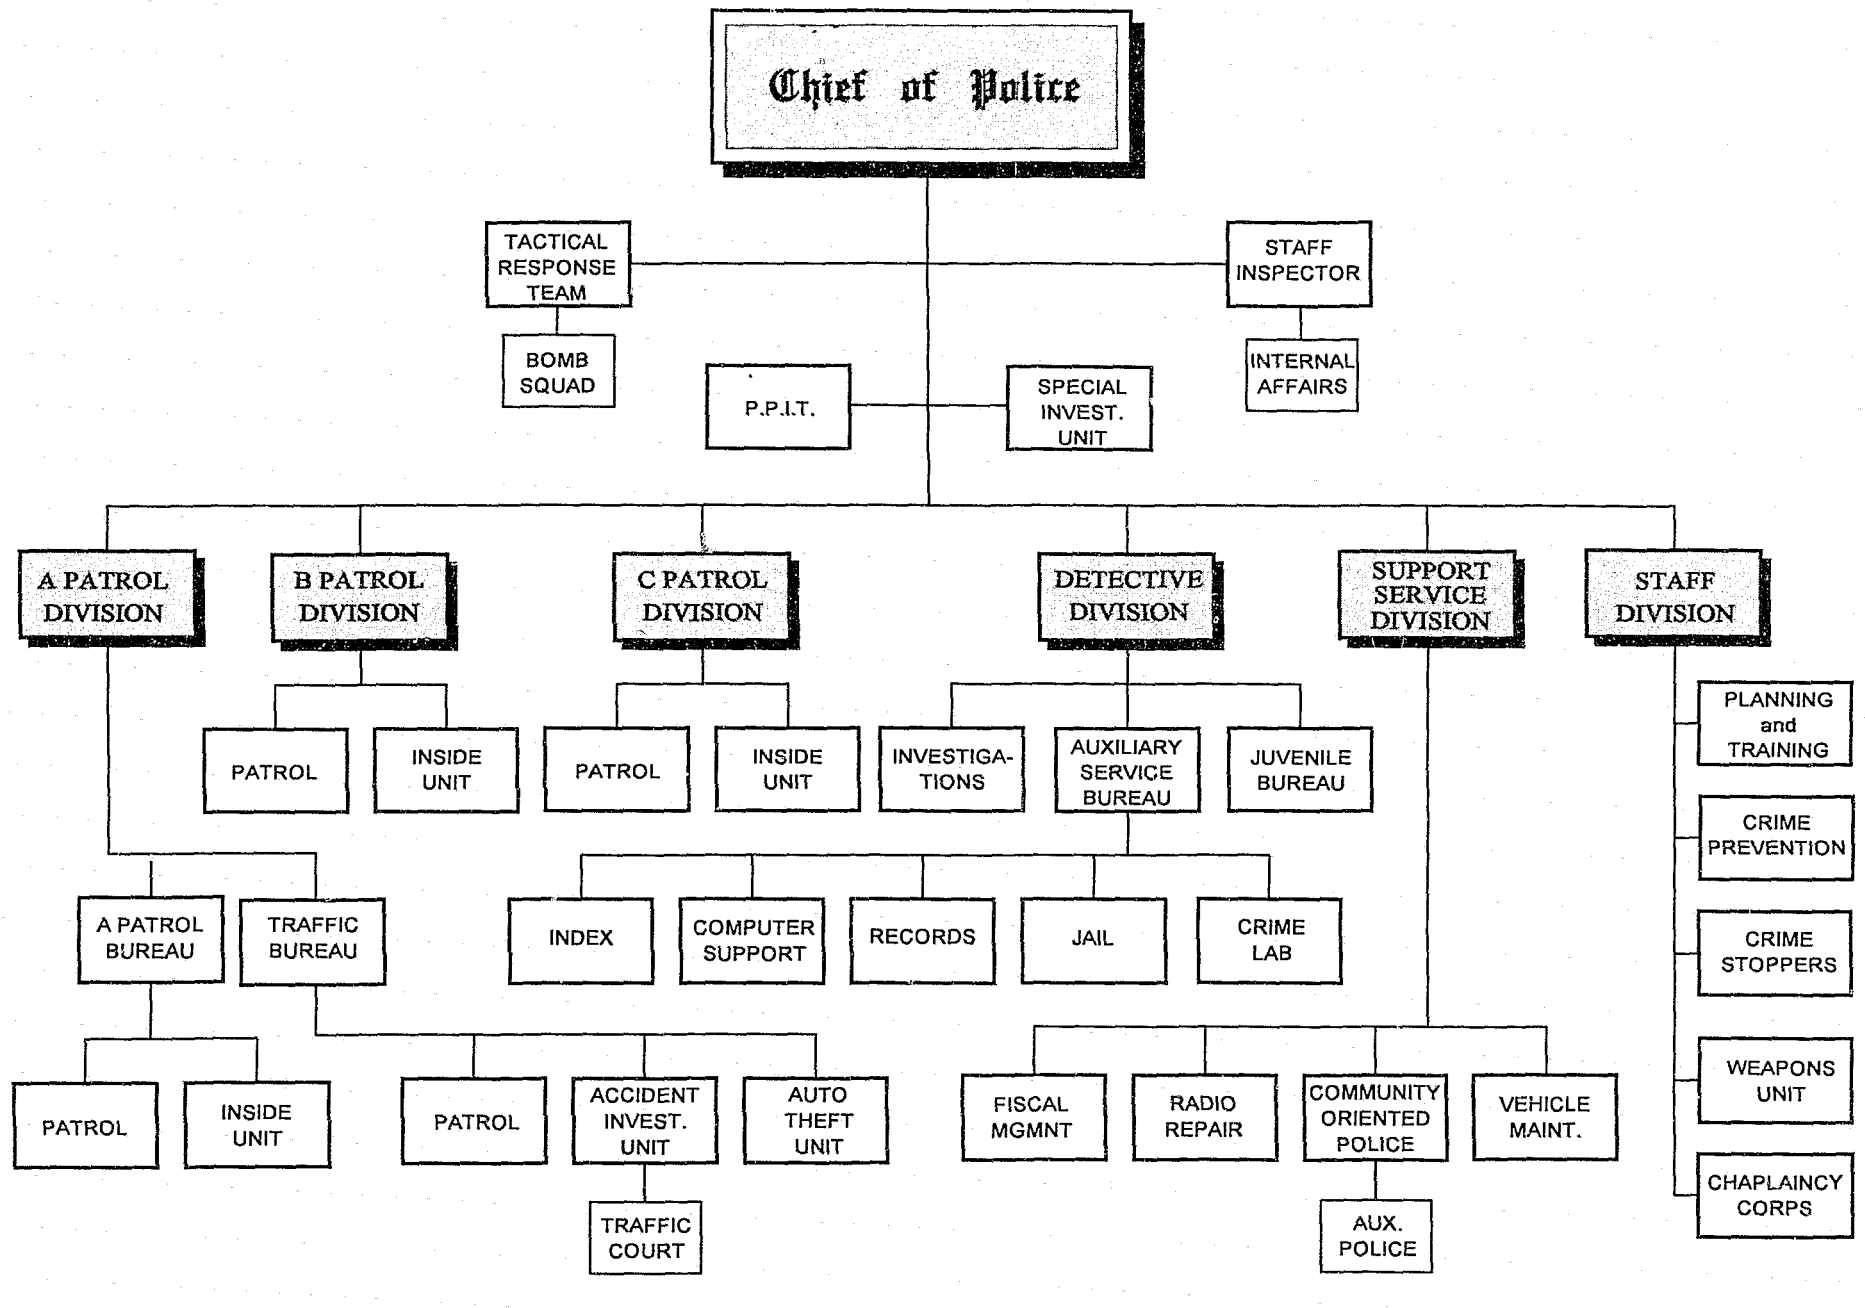

The Staff Inspector constantly examines the daily operations of all of the Department's sections focusing on adherence to Department policy and reports any transgressions to the Chief of Police. Additionally, the Staff Inspector oversees the Internal Affairs Unit, the Prosecutor's Investigator, and is the Chief's liaison with the City's Department of Law.

Tactical Response Team

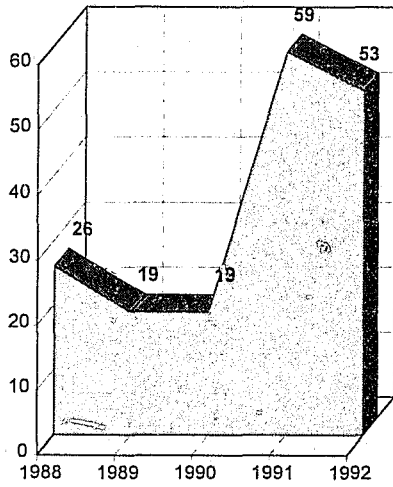

The Tactical Response Team is a group of sworn Youngstown Police Officers, assigned to various sections who are trained to respond to special situations and/or unusual occurrences requiring other than normal law enforcement tactics.

Special Investigation

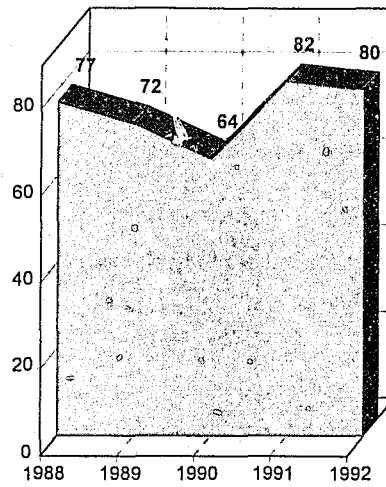

The Special Investigation Unit is responsible for the investigation and suppression of organized crime and the illegal vices.

The Y.M.H.A. Unit is a group of officers whose salaries and benefits are funded by the Youngstown Metropolitan Housing Authority. Their main purpose is to concentrate patrol activities in the public housing areas to pinpoint and attack specific problems arising therefrom. The unit's work schedule is adjusted periodically in an attempt to best facilitate this function.

AUXILIARY POLICE

The department's Auxiliary Police Bureau began July 16, 1992 with the swearing in of 21 officers. All officers had already completed the state's educational requirements for police officers. Nineteen of the inductees had prior police experience. In September of '92, after ancillary departmental training and indoctrination, the officers started working full uniform duty.

The purpose of the bureau is two-fold. It is designed as a training ground and hiring pool for full-time officers. It also serves as an emergency compliment of manpower to aid the regular police force when the need arises.

On September 18th, two Auxiliary Officers were sworn in as full time Youngstown Police Officers. Since they began uniform duty, Auxiliary Officers have worked with the Blue Divisions, Jail Unit, Special Investigation Unit, and Community Oriented Police Service. They put in a total of 1237 hours before the end of the year.

NEIGHBORHOOD TRAFFICKING

In 1992, the Special Investigation Unit was forced to concentrate its efforts on closing the increased number of "Crack Houses" within the city.

Although mostly operated by small dealers, these crack houses and the increased criminal activity that goes with them, were becoming more and more of a threat to neighborhood residents. This resulted in increased citizen complaints and the demand for the S.I.U. to affect change as soon as possible.

With cooperation from Mr. Frank Zarlinga of the city Housing Department, efforts to close the crack houses were often complemented by condemning the buildings. This forces some degree of permanency to the eradication of the problem.

EFFORTS AGAINST MAJOR SUPPLIERS

Much of the Unit's success with larger drug traffickers in 1992 was the result of a collaborative effort with the Mahoning County Drug Task Force and other federal agencies. The most notable cases included the Pagan family, the Roper organization, the Narvarro organization, the Brooks organization, and Jefferson Smith (also known as the "Breakout Lounge"). Trafficking by these organizations was linked to New York, Florida, California, and the Dominican Republic. Although many of the cases are still pending in federal courts, the ultimate goal, interruption of narcotics flow to our city, was achieved.

PHARMACEUTICAL PROGRAM

In cooperation with the State Pharmacy Board and the Drug Enforcement Administration, S.I.U. officers executed federal search warrants on the offices of two prominent Mahoning County physicians. The doctors, after being advised of the investigations, voluntarily gave up their DEA privileges to write prescriptions for controlled substances. Charges are pending against both subjects. The outcome of investigations such as these illustrate yet another means of limiting sources of illegal narcotics within our city.

The Youngstown area chapter of Crime Stoppers had another very successful year. This investigative tool offers law enforcement officers a clearing house of tips on various crimes and their perpetrators. Protection of caller anonymity and monetary compensation are the main reasons for the success of this program.

The local Crime Stoppers received its charter from Crime Stoppers International, Inc. in 1986. It is governed by stringent by-laws and administered by a board of directors which is responsible for determining reward amounts and conducting fund raisers.

The police coordinator selects the crimes to be broadcast and is responsible for compiling all related information. He then schedules the Crime of the Week to be aired on local television and radio stations and arranges for printing in area newspapers.

Youngstown Police Chaplaincy Corps

Members of the Youngstown Police Chaplaincy Corps continued to provide spiritual guidance to our officers and the public throughout 1992.

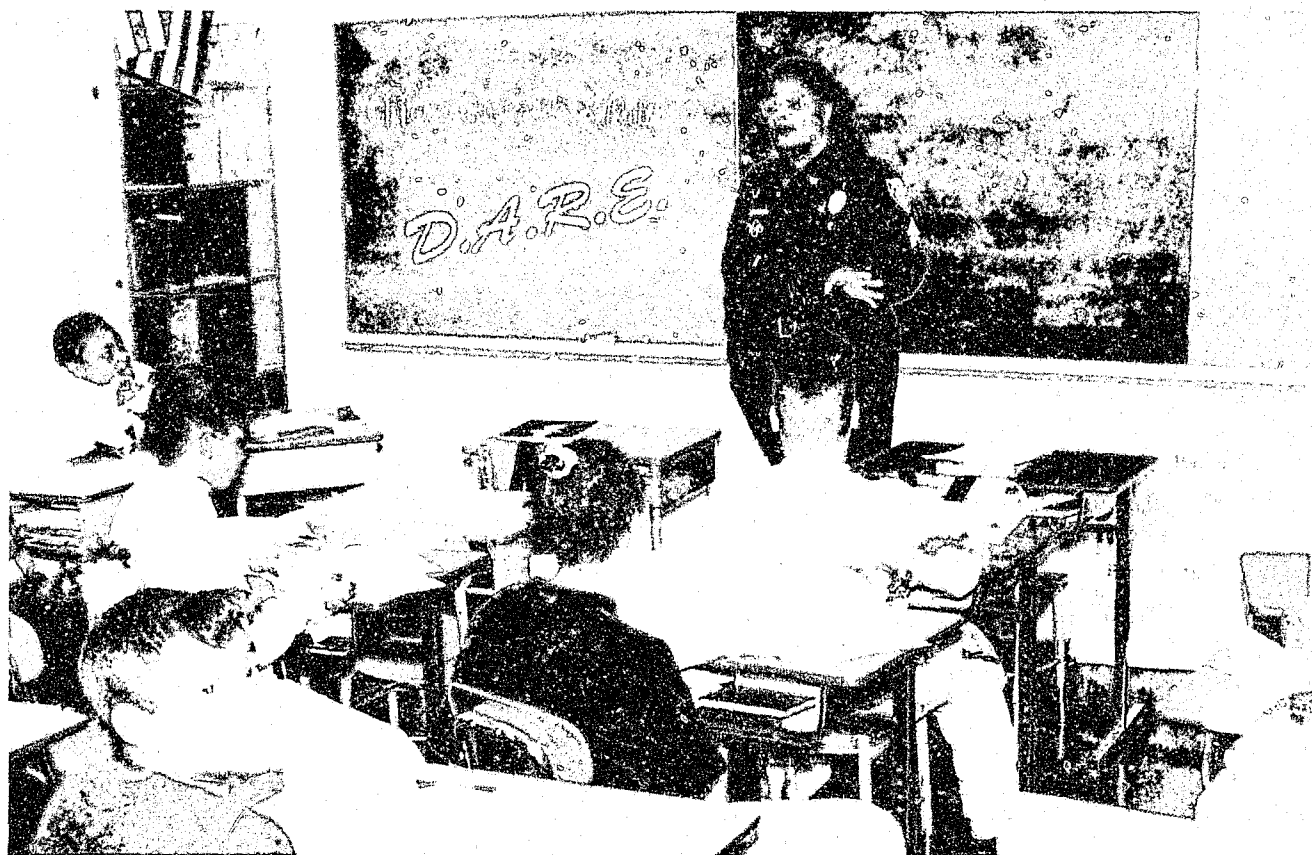

Made up of ordained members from varying faiths, this group requires special training quite unlike that received by their colleagues. In 1992 their instruction ranged from firearms training to hostage negotiations. As evidenced by the following list, this training was put to good use.

The men of the Chaplaincy Corps are to be highly commended ... having already dedicated their lives to the welfare of others, they willfully exceed the requirements of their ministries, leave the warmth of the church, and enter into the cold, harsh world of police work.

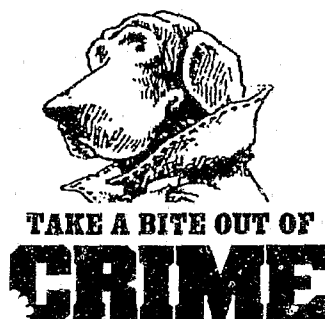

Listed below are the calls reported handled by the corps in 1992.

- 4 Death scenes
- 3 Hostage situations
- 1 Non-fatal shooting
- 8 Traffic accidents
- 20 Assist citizens
- 7 Domestic disputes
- 2 Assist homeless
- 1 Theft
- 1 Suicide attempt

The Community Oriented Police Services program is an effort by the Youngstown Police Department to assist targeted low-to-moderate income neighborhoods in dealing more effectively with the problems of disorder and crime. The ultimate goal of the program is to create an alliance between the police and citizens and make them partners in policing.

The C.O.P.S. officers patrol target areas on foot, in three-wheeled vehicles, and in other marked police vehicles. They interact with residents and business owners/operators on a personal basis to establish a closer working relationship. This enables officers to better determine problems in their areas and deal with those problems more effectively.

Since the inception of the Community Oriented Police Services Unit, feedback from citizens' groups, churches, the Youngstown Board of Education, and other local agencies has been very positive. By working closely with these groups, the Community Police have built strong relationships and established a common goal with the citizenry: to improve the quality of life in the target areas.

The Youngstown Police Department recognizes that all police officers sacrifice much of themselves for the communities they serve. But then there is the supreme sacrifice: the act of laying down one's life for the preservation of society. Not many are willing to take this risk; a risk police officers take every working day. Below is a list of police officers who have made the supreme sacrifice for the citizens of Youngstown.

Freed, William:

Officer Freed was shot while pursuing a burglary suspect. He was 27 years old.

Evans, Alfred:

Officer Evans was questioning a suspicious man on the street when the subject produced a revolver and fired. Officer Evans was 35 years old.

Banks, Samuel:

Officer Banks was assisting a motorist in traffic when he was struck and killed by another vehicle. He was 40 years old.

Warren, Alexander:

Officer Warren was approaching a suspicious person when the suspect produced a handgun and fired. The officer was 27 years old.

Yeaden, Ben:

Officer Yeaden was shot to death while pursuing a burglary suspect. He was 29 years old.

Leonard, George:

Officer Leonard was shot attempting to arrest a suspect who had been threatening people in a downtown store with a gun. He was 32.

Clemons, Henry:

Officer Clemons was shot to death after walking in on a burglary in progress at a gas station. He was 49 years old.

Cichon, Frank:

Officer Cichon was investigating a traffic crash when he was struck and killed by another motorist. The officer was 41 years old.

DeSalle, Ralph:

Officer DeSalle was assisting at the scene of a traffic crash when he was struck and killed by a semi truck. He was 40 years old.

Durkin, Paul:

Officer Durkin had stopped a suspicious person in a residential neighborhood when the suspect produced a hand-gun and shot him. Officer Durkin was 34 years old.

Williams, Millard:

Detective/Sergeant Williams was on routine patrol when he became involved in a traffic accident. His injuries were fatal; he was 39 years old.
