² Violent crime includes murder, forcible rape, robbery, and aggravated assault; Property crime includes burglary, larceny and motor vehicle theft

CRIME INDEX OFFENSES: JANUARY - JUNE 1994 (ESTIMATES)VIOLENT CRIMES

- » Violent crime decreased 8.1 percent statewide. Robbery, the most frequently occurring violent crime in the State, experienced the largest decline (-10.5%) of the four violent crimes.
- » New York City reported a decrease of 9.3 percent in violent crime and accounted for 82 percent of the violent crimes in the sample. The sampled Non-New York City agencies showed a 2.4 percent decrease in violent crime. The largest decrease was reported from agencies in the 50,000 to 99,999 population group (-15.4%). The only group of agencies to report an increase in violent crime was the 100,000 to 999,999 population group (+1.7%). For that group of agencies, an increase was reported for each violent offense category except forcible rape.

Total Violent Crimes in Sample = 81,854

PROPERTY CRIMES

Total Property Crimes in Sample = 309,973

- » Property crime decreased 9.4 percent statewide. Larceny is the most frequently occurring property crime, with a frequency more than double that of any other property crime. Motor vehicle thefts experienced the largest decline (-13.4%) of the three property crimes.
- » New York City reported a decrease of 9.8 percent in property crime and accounted for 62 percent of the property crimes in the sample. The sampled Non-New York City agencies showed an 8.8 percent decrease in property crime. The largest decrease was reported from agencies in the 25,000 to 49,999 population group (-11.0%).
