FOREWORD

The Glen Ellyn, Illinois, Police Department requested technical assistance in reviewing departmental written directives. The report that follows includes the findings, conclusions, and recommendations of the consultant, James A. Chipps, Jr., based on the analysis of existing written directives.

Following are the names of key persons involved in the initiation and processing of the request for technical assistance:

Requesting Agency: Mr. James E. Hill
Superintendent of Police
Glen Ellyn Police Department

Planning Agency: Ms. Jane Rae Oksas
Associate Director
Illinois Law Enforcement Commission

Approving Agency: Mr. Terrence Doherty
Police Specialist
LEAA - Region V

The services provided hereunder were supported financially by the LEAA through its National Police Services Technical Assistance contract. The conclusions and recommendations contained herein, however, are those of the consultant and do not necessarily represent the official position of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, U.S. Department of Justice.
I. INTRODUCTION

The Superintendent of Police of the Glen Ellyn, Illinois, Police Department requested technical assistance in reviewing the existing collection of written rules, policies, and procedures governing police activities. Specifically, the consultant was asked to do the following, in descending order of importance:

- recommend a method for organizing written directives to facilitate ease of reference;
- recommend standard definitions for classifying written directives by type (i.e., rules, policies, and procedures), and provide written illustrations of each;
- recommend procedures for the preparation, issuance, and maintenance of written directives;
- comment as time permitted on the content, comprehensiveness, and appropriateness of current written directives to contemporary police needs, and identify apparent departmental needs for formulating written directives for those areas where none presently exist.

In performing the requested technical assistance, the consultant met and worked closely with the department's administrative lieutenant, Dennis W. Jamieson. Lieutenant Jamieson, a capable executive who had been assigned the task of studying the department's written directive needs, made available to the consultant copies of all existing written directives and manuals. He and the consultant discussed the major elements that should be included in any new written directives document, as well as the recommended procedures for its preparation, maintenance, and distribution. The following report outlines the consultant's recommendations for the development, publication, and maintenance of such a document.
II. UNDERSTANDING THE PROBLEM

The Glen Ellyn Police Department is well organized and managed. Over the years, it has implemented a number of progressive service delivery methods, and its executive and command staff have demonstrated a continuing desire to support operational and managerial improvement.

Consistent with the department’s progressiveness, the superintendent of police and his principal commanders have determined that the existing collection of departmental written directives is no longer adequate to meet either the present or future needs of the department. He has thus requested technical assistance in order to bring them up to the required standard.
III. ANALYSIS OF THE PROBLEM

A review of the existing collection of written directives of the Glen Ellyn Police Department reveals a number of deficiencies, including:

1. Poor organization of material;
2. Lack of definitions of purpose and scope;
3. Extraneous and in some cases outdated material;
4. Failure to address some important areas of police conduct, departmental operation, and functional responsibilities;
5. A lack of an overall topical listing or index, except the one provided in the "Manual, Police Department of the Village of Glen Ellyn and Board of Fire and Police Commissioners."

In addition to the above concerns, no established process for reviewing and maintaining these directives exists in the department.
IV. FINDINGS AND CONCLUSIONS

The problem areas cited in the request for technical assistance by the superintendent of police were confirmed by a review of the existing body of written directives. A manual which brings together all the written directive needs of the department in a comprehensive and thorough manner must be developed. Moreover, a procedure for its regular review on a routine, scheduled basis needs to be established. Provisions which assign organizational responsibility for coordinating the mechanics of review should also be developed.
V. RECOMMENDATIONS

A new manual of departmental rules, policies, and procedures should be prepared. It is recommended that Administrative Division commander have the principal responsibility for coordinating this specific effort and the on-going responsibility for the new manual’s continued maintenance.

The new manual should be comprised of four major parts: Police Rules and Regulations, Departmental Organization and Administration, General and Special Directives, and Procedural Instructions.

It is suggested that the manual be prepared according to the guidelines presented in the appendices to this report, which include the following:

- Appendix A --- Rules, Policies, and Procedures Defined
- Appendix C --- Recommended Outline for Part II, Departmental Organization and Administration, of the Proposed Manual.
- Appendix D --- Recommended Written Directives Format for Part III, General and Special Directives, of the Proposed Manual.
- Appendix E --- Illustrative Procedural Instructions for Part IV of the Proposed Manual

As described, the contents of the proposed manual will become outdated without the installation of a formal review and revision process. A constant analysis of new laws, ordinances, citizen complaints, developing programs, and unusual occurrences is necessary to ensure that current needs are met by the existing written directives. Within the department’s current organization, the Administrative Division would logically be responsible for this function. It is further suggested that as the department proceeds with the preparation of a manual, picking and choosing from the materials herein enclosed, a formal maintenance program be concurrently developed.

Finally, it is recommended that the department’s current written directive materials, which were reviewed by the consultant for content and organization and returned to the department, be included in the proposed manual once they have undergone the consultant’s suggested modifications.
APPENDIX A

RULES, POLICIES, AND PROCEDURES DEFINED RULES

A good way to think of rules is as a body of directives governing employee and officer conduct. Thus, "rules of conduct" would be synonymous with "rules and regulations." All matters not specifically relating to conduct should be covered in operational guidelines published in the form of general, special, or procedural instructions. Rules should incorporate a degree of permanence. Operational guidelines, by contrast, might frequently be changed to respond to improved operational practices or necessary program changes.

A good definition of "rule" is: A specific prohibition or requirement which is stated to prevent deviation. Rules allow very little or no deviation in application other than for stated exceptions.

One final note: brevity, simplicity, and conciseness are essential in the construction of rules. Every effort should be made to avoid ambiguous and overly detailed phraseology.
POLICIES

Policies consist of principles\(^1\) and values\(^2\) which guide the performance of departmental activities. Policy is not a statement of what must be done in a particular situation; rather, it is a statement of guiding principles that should be followed in activities directed toward the attainment of departmental objectives.\(^3\)

Policy is formulated by analyzing objectives and determining through research those principles which will best guide the department in achieving its objectives. Policy is based on police ethics and experience, the desires of the community, and the mandate of law.

Policy is articulated to inform the public and department employees of the principles which will be adhered to in the performance of the law enforcement function. Additionally, policy establishes operational standards to assist department employees in the necessary exercise of discretion in discharging their responsibilities. Since policy is objective oriented rather than situation oriented, it is broad enough to encompass most situations. True policies, being guides, must allow for some discretion.

\(^1\)Principle -- a principle is a conceptual guide arrived at through logical deduction by evaluating experience with a view toward the attainment of objectives. A principle may be of assistance in the exercise of judgement in a duty-related activity and may be both ethical and functional.

\(^2\)Value -- a value is a quality of performance or accomplishment. Values are the basis for the determination of objectives and may be both ethical and functional.

\(^3\)Objective -- an objective is a desired end for which effort is expended and which, if attained, fulfills the purposes of the department. Within each objective there may be a number of ancillary objectives, each of which contributes to the accomplishment of the police mission.
PROCEDURE

A procedure is a method of performing an operation or a manner of proceeding on a course of action. It differs from policy in that it directs action in a particular situation to perform a specific task or tasks within the guidelines of policy. Both policies and procedures are objective oriented; however, policy establishes limits of action while procedure directs response within those limits. Procedures establish a customary method of handling activities as guides to action rather than thinking (i.e., policies).

CHAPTER 600
DISCIPLINARY PROCEDURES

601. Purpose of Discipline

601.1. Discipline directly influences the quality of police service and is essential in a police department to control its performance and to achieve satisfactory objectives. Laxity in discipline impairs the efficiency and effectiveness of the Department. Officers and employees of an undisciplined department lack esprit de corps, suffer from poor morale, and reflect a casual attitude towards their duties, their superiors, their responsibility to the Department, and the public. The net result is that the entire Department suffers from a lack of direction and purpose, and thereby becomes disorganized. It is a form of training, dependent for its success on the ability of superiors to train subordinates to obey and conform to the department rules and procedures. The rewards of effective discipline are prestige and public confidence in the Department and its leadership.

601.2. Police authorities define discipline as "intelligent, willing, and cheerful obedience to the will of the leader. It is the cohesive force which binds the members as a unit, and its strict enforcement is a benefit to all." Discipline establishes a state of mind which produces proper action and prompt cooperation under all circumstances.

602. Applicability

602.1. Officers and employees of the Department, regardless of rank, age, sex, or assignment, shall be subject to disciplinary action, according to the nature or aggravation of the offense, for failure, either willfully or through negligence or incompetence, to perform the duties of their rank or assignment; or for violation of any general order or rule of the Department; or for failure to obey any lawful instruction, order or command of a superior officer; or upon conviction in a court having criminal jurisdiction. Disciplinary action in all cases will be decided on the merits or demerits of each case. The final authority for disciplinary action rests with the Chief of Police.
603. Types of Disciplinary Actions

603.1.

At the discretion of the Chief of Police, and in accordance with the provisions of the Rules and Regulations prescribed herein, employees are subject to the following types of disciplinary actions:

603.1.a.

Oral reprimand.

603.1.b.

Written reprimand.

603.1.c.

Suspension from duty with pay.

603.1.d.

Suspension from duty without pay.

603.1.e.

Demotion in rank.

603.1.f.

Dismissal.

603.1.g.

Extra duty without pay on a voluntary basis.

604. Authority to Discipline

604.1.

The Chief of Police may, for good cause, suspend any officer or employee of the Police Department without pay for a period not to exceed three (3) consecutive calendar days. A report of all suspensions and a statement of the reasons therefor shall be made to the Police Commissioner within 24 hours of such action.
604.2.

The Chief of Police may not suspend any member from duty for more than three 3-day periods during any consecutive 12 months.

604.3.

The Chief of Police may demote in rank or dismiss any member of the Police Department for good cause. The Chief of Police shall furnish the member and the Police Commission a written statement showing the reasons for his action. The member shall be furnished a copy of the written statement immediately upon being notified of the action. The Police Commissioner shall be notified in writing within 24 hours of such action being taken.

604.4.

Any member who is demoted in rank or dismissed from the Police Department under this section shall have the right to appeal such action to the Police Commissioner. Such appeal must be made in writing within 15 days of the demotion or dismissal. The Police Commissioner shall be empowered to modify or approve the action of the Chief of Police. The decision of the Police Commissioner shall be final.

604.5.

A supervisor may, for good reason, impose disciplinary action on subordinate members over whom he has authority. Supervisors may impose either verbal or written reprimands. Recommendations for more severe types of disciplinary action shall be made to the Chief of Police.

604.6.

Supervisors may, in emergencies, suspend from duty for not more than three consecutive days members whose conduct poses an immediate threat to good order and discipline of the Department or to the general welfare and safety of the public. The Chief of Police should be notified in writing of such actions immediately.

605. Appeals

605.1.

Any member who is demoted, dismissed, or suspended for more than three days may initiate a written request for a public hearing to the Police Committee within 10 days of the effective date of the disciplinary action. The Police Committee may, after a review of the incident, order whatever action it seems appropriate. The action of the Police Committee shall be final.

Supervisors are permitted to attempt to resolve minor complaints at the time they are received. Every attempt should be made to resolve the complaint to the satisfaction of the citizen, if this can be achieved equitably and fairly to all persons concerned.

704.3.
Supervisors who succeed in resolving minor complaints shall nevertheless make a written report of the complaint and the action taken to the Chief of Police.

704.4.
Supervisors who are unable to resolve the complaint due to its apparent gravity or for other reasons shall report the complaint, the actions taken, and their recommendations for further action to the Chief of Police.

705. Duty of the Chief of Police

705.1.
The Chief of Police is ultimately responsible for the conduct of all members of the Department, and is required to take those steps which, in his judgment, are necessary to satisfactorily resolve citizen complaints against members of the Police Department.

The Chief of Police shall ensure that a complete record is prepared and maintained of all citizen complaints against members of the Police Department.

705.3.
The Chief of Police shall cause all citizen complaints against members of the Department to be promptly and thoroughly investigated.

705.4.
The Chief of Police shall review the reports of all citizen complaints against members of the Police Department that have been resolved by superior officers to ensure that the actions taken by such superior officers were fair and equitable to all concerned. At his discretion, the Chief of Police may direct that further action regarding a citizen's complaint be taken if it appears that the earlier actions taken were not satisfactory.
The Chief of Police shall, upon completion of an investigation of a citizen's complaint against a member of the Department, review the results of the investigation and determine the appropriate disposition of the matter. The results of the investigation shall result in one of the four findings:

705.5.a. Unfounded. The evidence clearly establishes that the incident did not occur.

705.5.b. Not Sustained. The evidence fails to establish whether or not the incident occurred.

705.5.c. Exonerated. The evidence reflects that the incident did occur, but that the actions of the member were proper and reasonable.

705.5.d. Sustained. The evidence clearly reflects that the incident did occur and that the actions of the member constitute grounds for disciplinary action.

705.6. The Chief of Police shall ensure that citizens making complaints against members of the Department are notified of the final disposition of the incident.

705.7. The results of all investigations concerning citizen complaints against members of this Department shall be confidential.

705.8. Reports of investigations of citizen complaints which are determined to be unfounded shall not be included in the officer's personnel file, but shall be placed in a separate file maintained by the Chief of Police; all other reports of investigations of citizen complaints shall be placed in the officer's personnel file.

707. Review by Police Commissioner

APPENDIX E

ILLUSTRATIVE PROCEDURAL INSTRUCTIONS
FOR PART IV OF THE PROPOSED MANUAL
Procedural Instructions

Procedural instructions are a compilation, by general subject area, of specific instructions to personnel to guide them in carrying out certain duties. Procedural instructions in Glen Ellyn should be organized according to:

- Administrative Procedures
- Field Operational Procedures
- Technical Services Procedures
- Staff Services Procedures
- General Procedures

An example of a General Procedure is enclosed for purposes of illustration.
I. INTRODUCTION

The importance involved in the proper care and maintenance of firearms cannot be over-emphasized. Most officers may never be called upon to use a firearm in the performance of their duties as law enforcement officers. On the other hand, some officers will use a firearm several times during their career. If and when an officer is confronted with a situation where the defense of his own life or the life of another person depends on his use of a firearm, the weapon he uses must be in proper working condition at that particular instant. The only thing which can provide this assurance is adequate and proper care of the firearm on the part of the officer responsible for using it.

II. PURPOSE

The purpose of the procedures set forth in this instruction is to provide guidelines and instructions to be utilized by all officers of the department in the proper care and maintenance of department issued firearms.

III. POLICY

It shall be the policy of this department that all firearms issued to individual officers, bureaus, divisions, or units shall be maintained in presentable and functional condition at all times.

A. Presentable condition is defined as the firearm being properly and adequately cleaned, free of any rust, lead deposit, or powder residue, properly lubricated, and loaded with the prescribed ammunition when in use.

B. Functional condition is defined as all working parts and mechanisms of the firearm to be in proper operating order.

IV. PROCEDURE

A. Service Revolvers

1. The service revolver shall be routinely cleaned and oiled at least every other week by the officer to whom it is assigned. Such cleaning shall be accomplished in accordance with the instructions listed in Annex A, titled, "Instructions for Cleaning the Service Revolver".
2. The metal surfaces of the service revolver should be wiped with WD-40, gun oil, or other approved rust-preventive solution, at least twice per week on a routine basis, and any time the weapon is exposed to inclement weather. This step is not necessary on teflon coated surfaces.

3. It shall be the responsibility of each individual officer to maintain his service revolver in the prescribed manner so that it is in a presentable and functional condition at all times.

4. Any officer who fails to maintain his service revolver in the manner specified in Item #3 above, shall be subject to disciplinary action.

B. Department Shotguns

1. Each department shotgun shall be cleaned once per week on a routine basis. Such cleaning shall be accomplished in accordance with the instructions listed in Annex B, titled, "Instructions for Cleaning the Remington Model 870 Shotgun".

2. It shall be the responsibility and duty of each second watch officer, who on Sunday is assigned to a police vehicle equipped with a department shotgun, to clean that shotgun in accordance with the instructions listed in Annex B, titled, "Instructions for Cleaning the Remington Model 870 Shotgun", prior to the general vehicle and equipment inspection.

3. Station personnel assigned to the second watch at each division or unit shall be responsible for cleaning all department shotguns assigned to the division or unit which are not in use on any given Sunday. Such cleaning shall be accomplished in accordance with the instructions listed in Annex B and shall be completed sometime during the regular tour of duty on Sunday of each week.

4. Each department shotgun shall be rotated through the Gunroom every six (6) months for thorough cleaning, necessary repairs, refinishing, and inspection by the department firearms repairman.

5. The desk sergeant assigned to the second watch shall assure that each shotgun assigned to his division or unit is forwarded to the Gunroom for the six (6) month inspection. The shotguns shall be scheduled at the rate of not more than two (2) per week until such time all assigned shotguns have been inspected and shall be rescheduled each six (6) months thereafter on a routine basis.

6. The desk sergeant assigned to the second watch shall be responsible for maintaining a file to contain a 4" x 6" card on each department shotgun assigned to his division or unit. The card shall indicate the serial number of the shotgun, the officer or beat to which it is assigned, and the dates involved for each six (6) month inspection, including the date the next inspection is due.
7. The desk sergeant assigned to the second watch at each division or unit shall assure proper and adequate cleaning equipment is maintained at the station at all times. He shall requisition the required items from the Supply Unit. The required cleaning items shall include an adequate supply of the following:

a. Cleaning rods for service revolvers and shotguns. (At least two (2) of each).

b. Cleaning brushes for service revolvers and shotguns. (At least two (2) of each).

c. Cleaning patches and rags.

d. Hoppe's #9 nitro solvent.

e. WD-40.

C. Other Department Firearms

1. The proper care and cleaning of all other department issued firearms shall be accomplished on a routine basis and in an acceptable manner by the officers to whom such weapons are assigned.

D. Caution

Care should be taken when using spray lubricants (WD 40, etc.) as they can penetrate cartridge primers and cause a weapon to misfire. When using a spray lubricant on a weapon, officers should:

1. Remove all ammunition from the firearm before spraying the weapon.

2. Revolvers

Wipe the entire cylinder dry inside and out. Check for excess lubrication under the cylinder extractor and surrounding area including the recoil plate and bushings with particular attention to the firing pin access opening.

Care should be taken to wipe dry the breech, bolt face extractor, firing pin assembly, and underside of the slide.

DISTRIBUTION: All Personnel
All Bureaus, Divisions, and Units
To be posted on all bulletin boards for one week.
Annex A and Annex B to be permanently posted at or near the location where weapon cleaning is accomplished.
INSTRUCTIONS FOR CLEANING THE SERVICE REVOLVER

NOMENCLATURE

CAUTION: Always unload the weapon prior to cleaning. Double check to make certain there are no cartridges in the cylinder.

1. Open the cylinder and hold the weapon with the muzzle toward you and pointed slightly downward.

2. Attach a cleaning patch dipped in Hoppe's #9 nitro solvent to the cleaning rod, and run it back and forth several times through the barrel.

3. If the weapon has been fired recently, run a bristle brush dipped in solvent back and forth several times through the barrel.

4. Attach a dry cleaning patch to the cleaning rod and run it back and forth in the barrel. Change the patches as they become dirty and continue the process until they come out clean and dry.

5. Repeat the above steps for each chamber in the cylinder.

6. Due to corrosion caused by escaping gases between the barrel and the cylinder, the following parts also require cleaning:

   a. The frame just above the cylinder at the rear of the barrel.
b. The area around the throat of the barrel.

c. The throat of the barrel.

d. The nose of the hammer and firing-pin.

e. The firing-pin channel and the hammer groove in the frame.

f. The extractor rod.

7. After the gun has been cleaned, the following parts should be checked before oiling:

a. Check all screws on the side plate and grips to make certain they are tight. (Use a screwdriver that fits the screw heads in order to avoid burring the screws).

b. Check the extractor rod to assure that it moves freely. If it binds, check for accumulation of dirt, or a bent rod.

c. With the cylinder still open, dry fire the weapon double action while holding the finger against the plate where the firing-pin comes through the frame to assure that it protrudes far enough to strike the primer.

d. Close the cylinder and cock the weapon. Watch as you are doing this to see that the cylinder revolves to the next chamber. Check to see that the cylinder is locked in place. If the movement is slight, it is locked into proper position. If the movement is more than slight, the weapon is in need of repair.

8. With the cylinder open, put a drop of oil on the extractor rod in front of the cylinder, and work the rod back and forth so the oil is evenly distributed. Push the rod all the way back to the cylinder and put a drop of oil on that part of the rod exposed behind the cylinder, then work the rod back and forth until it works smoothly and freely.

9. Put a drop of oil on the firing-pin at the point where it is attached to the hammer.

10. Put a drop of oil in the channel groove in the top of the frame through which the hammer travels. This will flow down into all of the other working parts inside the gun.

11. Wipe away any excess oil that may appear.

12. Lightly spray a cleaning patch with WD-40 and using a cleaning rod, run it through the barrel and through each chamber in the cylinder.
13. Allow a few minutes for the WD-40 to penetrate, then run a dry cleaning patch through the barrel and each chamber of the cylinder to remove any excess WD-40.

14. Lightly spray a clean dry rag with WD-40 and wipe all the exterior metal surfaces of the weapon. (This step is not necessary on teflon coated revolvers.)

15. Allow a few minutes for the WD-40 to penetrate, then wipe the excess off with a clean dry rag.

16. Make certain each chamber in the cylinder is completely dry before reloading the weapon.

General Rules:

1. The service revolver should be oiled every time it is cleaned.

2. Do not over oil. It is important that only a drop of oil be placed on the vital parts.

3. If the service revolver is in need of repair, or it is apparent the interior working parts need cleaning or oiling, take it to the Supply Unit.

4. Care for your revolver well, so that it will work properly when you need it.

5. Use caution when using spray lubricants (WD-40) as they can penetrate cartridge primers and cause weapons to misfire. When using spray lubricants on a revolver, officers should:

   a. Remove all ammunition from the firearm before spraying the lubricant on the weapon.

   b. After spraying a lubricant on the weapon, be sure to wipe the cylinder dry inside and out. Check for excess lubricant under the cylinder extractor and surrounding area, including the recoil plate and bushing with particular attention to the firing pin access opening.
INSTRUCTIONS FOR CLEANING THE REMINGTON MODEL 870 SHOTGUN

NOMENCLATURE (BROKEN LINES INDICATE PARTS ON REVERSE SIDE)

Caution: Always check to make certain no shells remain in the barrel or the magazine prior to cleaning.

1. Push safety to the "On Safe" position (red band not showing), and open the action. (Do not pump the action or pull the trigger with the barrel removed.)

2. Unscrew the magazine cap and remove the barrel from the receiver.

3. Replace the magazine cap to the end of the magazine tube so the magazine spring and retainer will stay in the tube.

4. Insert a cloth patch in the cleaning rod and swab the bore several times using Hoppe's #9 nitro solvent. Do not use a brush unless there is a heavy accumulation of lead and power residue inside the barrel. If a brush is necessary, push it completely through and out of the barrel before reversing the stroke.

5. Insert a dry cleaning patch or rag in the cleaning rod and run it through the barrel several times to remove the solvent and residue. Use a second cleaning patch if necessary.

6. Using the plastic nozzle extension attached to a can of WD-40, lightly spray the interior of the barrel from each end.

7. Allow a few minutes for the WD-40 to penetrate then run a dry cleaning patch or rag through the barrel to remove the excess spray.

E-8
8. With a small amount of Hoppe’s #9 nitro solvent on a dry rag, thoroughly clean the inside front of the receiver group. Entry can be gained through the loading and ejection port, the magazine loading port, or the front of the receiver group (when barrel is removed).

9. Spray a small amount of WD-40 on a clean dry rag, and wipe the inside front of the receiver group in the same manner as specified in step #8 above.

10. Allow a few minutes for the WD-40 to penetrate, then wipe the excess off with a clean dry rag.

11. Replace the barrel and magazine cap. (Magazine cap should be finger-tight.)

12. Lightly spray WD-40 on the exterior metal surfaces. (It is not necessary to do this to shotguns with teflon coating.)

13. Allow a few minutes for the WD-40 to penetrate, then wipe off the excess spray with a dry rag.

General Rules:

1. When it is apparent the shotgun has not been fired recently, steps #4 and #5 above, can be eliminated.

2. When in doubt as to the use of solvent, push a close-fitting dry rag through the barrel. If lead streaks show on the rag; swab the bore with the solvent as noted in step #4 above.

3. Be careful not to use more solvent or WD-40 than necessary. Too much solvent, oil or WD-40 can get down into the action and magazine. Care should be taken to wipe dry the breech, bolt face, extractor, firing pin assembly, and underside of the slide to prevent a buildup of WD-40 on these parts. An excessive amount of the lubricant can penetrate the shell primers and cause the weapon to misfire.
