PHOENIX POLICE

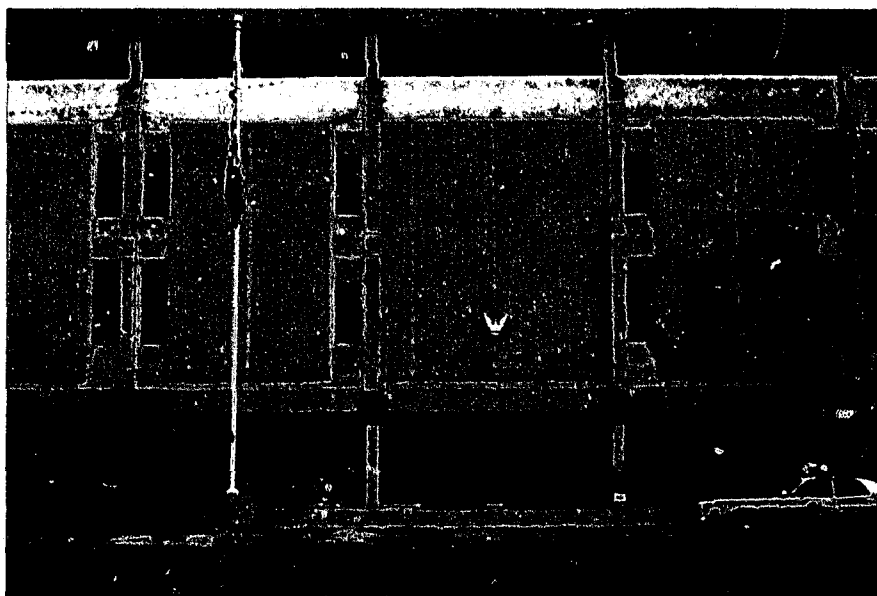

Phoenix, the home of Arizona State Government, functions under a council-manager form of city administration.

Phoenix has grown from a population of 65,000 people and 10 square miles in 1940, to over 682,200 people and 276.6 square miles in 1977.

This growth has resulted in a considerable increase in requests for police service and an increase in Police Department strength from 173 employees in 1940 to 2,055 employees in 1977.

In 1977, a "Team Experiment In Area Mobilization" was completed which provided citizens of a nine-square mile area with the advantages of a small-town police force plus the resources of a large police department. The experiment involved 50 officers assigned to serve and protect 25,000 inhabitants. The officers assigned to this experimental project were responsible for providing total police services, including functions normally handled by detectives and community relations specialists. An essential part of the program is citizen involvement. Team members met with clubs, citizen groups, and groups of businessmen to foster an awareness of crime prevention techniques and develop solutions to specific crime problems of the area. The experiment was successful and very well received by the citizens of the area. The results of the experiment are the basis for the decentralization program being initiated by the Department. City-wide expansion of team policing was delayed due to budgeting constraints.

The Crime Resistance Program, stressing the involvement of the community in the reduction of crime, was continued and expanded in 1977. This program focused on increasing public awareness of the crime problem through radio, television, newspaper advertisements and information pamphlets. The program enlisted the support of various community service organizations to assist in special projects. The program received a 40 foot mobile crime resistance display unit for the presentation of crime prevention and home security programs to the public. Through the use of this mobile unit, Crime Resistance personnel were able to institute burglary prevention displays at various business establishments throughout the city and reach more citizens with timely information.

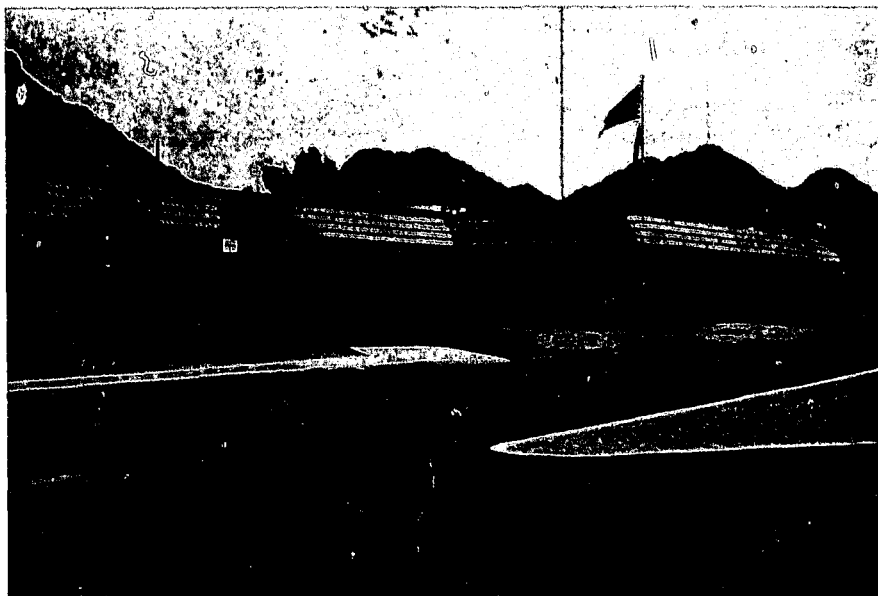

The Crime Resistance Program enlisted the support of various community service organizations to sponsor home security checks and encourage participation in Departmental crime prevention programs such as Operation Identification and the Block Watch Program. In some areas, previous burglary victims were contacted in order to ascertain what security measures had been taken since being victimized. Officers then offered suggestions on how to further improve security.

The explosive detection dog training was completed in 1977 and implemented with officer handlers on 24 hour call out. The dogs were cross-trained to track humans and proved useful in locating criminals as well as lost children. These explosive detection teams supplement the narcotic detector dog teams that, in 1977 were instrumental for the seizure of 857 pounds of marijuana, 2 ounces of heroin, and 3 vehicles. These seizures resulted in the arrest of 22 persons.

In 1975, Phoenix voters approved a 12.4 million dollar Capital Improvement Program for the Phoenix Police Department. During 1976, design work was completed on seven of these projects which include a new Regional Police Academy, two new briefing stations, a new Air Patrol Facility, and the expansion of three briefing stations. In 1977 construction was started on one new briefing station (Union Hills) and expansion of Maryvale, Squaw Peak, and Sky Harbor was completed.

On January 24, 1977, the Department was reorganized into the following five divisions, each commanded by an assistant chief: Management Services (formerly Administrative Services); Field Operations; Community Services (formerly Community Relations); Technical Services; and a newly-created Inspectional Services Division.

Under the January 24, 1977, reorganization, the Management Services Division includes the Office of Administration, the Training Bureau, the Employment Services Bureau, the Planning and Research Bureau, (formerly Research and Development Bureau), and the Fiscal Management Bureau. Under the Division of Field Operations, two Patrol Zone Majors each command two patrol districts, and the General Investigations Major commands the Criminal Investigations Bureau and the Special Investigations Bureau; the Special Operations Major commands the Selective Enforcement Bureau and the Traffic Bureau. The Community Services

Division is comprised of Youth Services, Community Relations, Crime Resistance, and Public Information activities. The Technical Services Division includes the Communications Bureau, the Information Bureau, the Laboratory Bureau, and the Computer Services Bureau. The Duty Majors, the Organized Crime Bureau, the Internal Inspections Bureau, the Internal Affairs Bureau, the Property Bureau, and the Law Specialists are under the Inspectional Services Division.

This report is presented on the basis of the organizational structure that existed in 1977.

CITY OF PHOENIX
POLICE DEPARTMENT

DEPARTMENTAL GOALS OBJECTIVES AND ACCOMPLISHMENTS FOR 1977

The Police Department's primary goal is to provide the community with a law enforcement system that integrates and utilizes all Departmental, civic, and community resources to provide police services, to protect the life and property of society, and to enforce the laws and ordinances within the framework of the Constitution.

- Maintain response time to emergency requests for service at 5 minutes and non-emergency response time at 15 minutes
ACCOMPLISHMENTS: In 1977, emergency response time was 4.7 minutes and non-emergency response time was 15 minutes.
- Increase total illegal narcotic suppression effort in order to limit and control such activities.
ACCOMPLISHMENTS: The Department arrested 2,497 persons (6,268 charges) for the sale and possession of narcotics and other dangerous drugs in 1977. As a result of this increased pressure, statistics on seized drugs indicate there is a reduction in narcotic and dangerous drugs in Phoenix.
- Increase prosecution-oriented investigations into the area of business fraud and other organized criminal activity.
ACCOMPLISHMENTS: As the result of increased formal training, data analysis has improved and aided in the investigation of complex cases. These and other increased activities has brought about successful prosecutions in major cases of land fraud, securities violations, and advance fee frauds; which have had a significant impact upon the community.
- Initiate team policing which fosters a highly cooperative, and thus more effective, relationship between police officers and the citizens of the area they serve.
ACCOMPLISHMENTS: A team policing experiment was conducted in District 8 and involved 50 police officers assigned to perform a full range of police functions for 25,000 inhabitants living in a nine-square mile area. Experiment was completed and proved very successful. City-wide expansion of team policing was delayed until briefing station capital improvements are completed.
- Initiate Department decentralization for more effective law enforcement concurrent with the City's growth.
ACCOMPLISHMENTS: Concurrent with the expansion of the briefing stations, decentralization of the department began with the completion of a decentralization study outlining procedures and implementation methods. This study is now being reviewed by the staff with implementation scheduled for next year.

PATROL

PROGRAMS/PROJECTS

- Completed a team policing experiment in District 8 involving 50 officers assigned to serve and protect 25,000 people living in a nine-square-mile area. The officers assigned to this area were responsible for providing total police service. Data from the experiment will be used to develop an expanded team policing concept planned for implementation in stages, beginning in October, 1978.
- Continued the operation of Crime Resistance and Crime Prevention units in each district, resulting in a substantial increase in the number of arrests, in spite of a reduction of three percent in total Patrol manpower during 1977, and an increase in the total number of calls answered.

ACCOMPLISHMENTS

- Emergency response time was reduced from 4.8 minutes to 4.7 minutes in 1977. The response time for non-emergency calls rose to 15.0 minutes in 1977, an increase of 2.3 minutes over the 12.7 minutes in 1976. This increase is minimized when considering the Patrol Bureau answered 58,987 more calls for service in 1977 than in 1976, and with 3.4% fewer officers than in 1976.
