REPORT OF THE DIRECTOR OF THE ADMINISTRATIVE
OFFICE OF THE UNITED STATES COURTS
ON THE OPERATION OF TITLE I OF THE SPEEDY
TRIAL ACT OF 1974 (18 U.S.C. 3161 - 3174)

This is the third report to the Congress on the implementation of the Speedy Trial Act of 1974. The first report summarized the interim plans set out by the Speedy Trial Planning Groups and was submitted on September 30, 1976. The second report provided statistics on the progress of the district courts for the first year of operation under the interim time limits and was submitted to Congress in two volumes on September 30, 1977.

This report summarizes the final speedy trial plans adopted by the District Planning Groups together with compliance statistics for the two years beginning July 1, 1976 and July 1, 1977.

This report on Title I is the final comprehensive report on the speedy trial plans required by the Act. Future statistics reflecting compliance with the third transitional year and the permanent time limits will be embodied in reports of the Director of the Administrative Office of the United States Courts.

TITLE I. SPEEDY TRIAL

A. INTRODUCTION

This report sets out the detailed information provided in the district courts "final" speedy trial plans developed in accordance with 18 U.S.C. Section 3165(e). The salient features of the plans are reviewed in this report. A copy of each speedy trial plan is on file in the Administrative Office of the United States Courts.

The majority of the plans indicate that the effect on criminal justice administration of the prevailing time limits has been more rapid disposition of criminal cases and a decrease in criminal backlog. Planning groups also report that the administration of criminal justice was improved through more efficient administrative procedures and improved cooperation and planning between the courts, prosecution, clerk's offices and defense. The prompt administration of criminal justice was said by some planning groups to improve the quality of justice. A speedy trial enables witnesses' memories to be fresh, trial is held before witnesses become unavailable, and, if convicted, the punishment bears a greater association with the crime.

The district courts, operating under Speedy Trial Act plans adopted in 1976, made significant progress during the past year in reducing the number of pending criminal cases in order to meet the Act's interim time limits for the disposition of criminal cases and ultimately to meet the permanent time limits which will become effective in 1979. Available data indicates that to date in over 90 percent of the cases the Courts have been able to operate within the gradually reduced time limits. For the year ending June 30, 1978 criminal filings declined from 41,589 to 35,983, a reduction of 13.5%. Also during the year criminal terminations exceeded criminal filings resulting in a decrease in the pending criminal caseload of 7.6 percent from the 1977 level. As a measure of the courts' performance, the pending criminal caseload continues to steadily decline.

B. STATUS OF CRIMINAL DOCKETS

Criminal cases pending on the dockets of the district courts on June 30, 1978 were 15,847 compared with 17,150 at the beginning of the year. This was a reduction of 1,303 or 7.6 percent. In three years pending criminal cases have been reduced from 22,411 to 15,847, a reduction of 6,564 cases or 29 percent. The following table shows the decrease in pending criminal cases in the district courts during the last three years:

CRIMINAL CASE FLOW IN UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURTS
FOR YEARS ENDED JUNE 30, 1975 TO 1978

Cases	1975	1976	*1977	1978	Percentage Change 1978 over 1977
Filed	43,282	41,020	41,589	35,983	-13.5
Terminated	43,515	43,675	44,233	37,286	-15.7
Pending June 30	22,411	19,756	17,150	15,847	-7.6

*Revised

Of primary significance is the decline in the number of criminal cases pending more than six months which did not involve fugitive defendants and were presumably available for trial. These cases declined from 2,754 on June 30, 1977, to 2,436 on June 30, 1978, a decrease of 318 cases, or 11.5 percent. Of the 8,056 cases pending longer than 6 months on June 30, 1978, 5,620 or 70 percent involved fugitive defendants. These cases are not available for trial.

Table 2 shows the age of pending criminal cases at the end of the last four years, and the following Table 3 presents criminal cases pending on June 30, 1977 and 1978.

C. TIME INTERVALS BETWEEN ARREST AND INDICTMENT, INDICTMENT TO ARRAIGNMENT, ARRAIGNMENT TO TRIAL AND CONVICTION TO SENTENCING

1. Time Interval from Arrest to Indictment or Information

During the first year under the transitional time limits the districts were able to meet the 60 day limitation on the time interval from arrest to indictment (or information) in 95.3 percent of the cases. In the second transitional year the time limits were reduced to 45 days and the districts were able to indict within 45 days of arrest 94.2 percent of the time.

Forty-one of the 94 districts courts were in compliance with the 45 day arrest to indictment time interval as shown in Table 4. Table 5 presents compliance rates by circuit and district for the year ended June 30, 1978. Refer to Appendix D for detailed interval data by circuit and district.

2. Time Interval from Indictment to Arraignment

Defendants arrested prior to indictment must be arraigned within ten days of indictment or information; those arrested after indictment, within 10 days of arrest and first appearance. Of 44,859 defendants in the first transitional year 39,122, or 87.2, percent were arraigned in 10 days or less. Of the 26,966 arraigned in the second transitional year, 24,377 (90.4 percent) were arraigned in ten days or less.

Tables 6 and 7 show compliance rates for the district courts. Refer to Appendix E for detailed interval data by circuit and district.

3. Time Interval from Arraignment to Trial (Including Plea or Dismissal)

During the year ending June 30, 1978 the Act requires that defendants be brought to trial within 120 days of arraignment. Of the 45,815 defendants with third interval time in the first transitional year, 44,428 or 97 percent were tried or pled guilty within 180 days from the date of arraignment. Defendants with third interval time in the second transitional year were tried or pled guilty within 120 days in 96.6 percent of the cases. Nineteen districts disposed of all defendants within 120 days after arraignment.

Tables 8 and 9 show compliance rates for the district courts. Refer to Appendix F for detailed interval data by circuit and district.

4. Time Interval from Conviction to Sentencing

The Speedy Trial Act does not establish time limits governing the period between conviction and sentencing but does require that statistics be furnished regarding the time span between conviction and sentencing.

A Model Statement of Time Limits and Procedures for Achieving Prompt Disposition of Criminal Cases approved by the Committee on the Administration of the Criminal Law of the Judicial Conference recommended to the district courts that they adopt a 45 day time limit for the conviction to sentencing interval.

During the past two years district courts were able to meet the 45 day recommended time limit from conviction to sentencing for 77.5 percent of all defendants convicted.

Tables 10 and 11 show compliance rates for the district courts. Refer to Appendix G for detailed interval data by circuit and district.

D. EXPERIENCE UNDER THE ACT

Experience under the Speedy Trial Act has been limited to the transitional period when sanctions have not been operational. Several districts mentioned in their plans that the effects of the Act would not be known until the time limits are enforced with sanctions. Nevertheless, the experiences gained thus far are useful in predicting some of the Act's probable impact.

1. Problems Encountered By The Courts

The planning groups reported that the principal problems for the courts have been inadequate resources, (principally too few judges) greater administrative burdens, scheduling inflexibility and an adverse effect on the civil docket. Forty-four of the planning groups stated that their district courts encountered increased delay in the disposition of civil cases. Overall the pending civil caseload for all district courts increased from 140,189 on June 30, 1976, to 166,462 on June 30, 1978, - an increase of 18.7 percent since the commencement of time limits under the Speedy Trial Act.¹

Twenty-two of the planning groups reported increased administrative burdens resulting from more frequent convening of grand juries (several districts reported a doubling of the frequency); increased record-keeping responsibilities; and a need to transport prisoners more frequently.

To meet the time limits criminal cases have been scheduled early to make allowance for unexpected interruptions. Motions for continuances are being granted less frequently because of the disruptive impact of rescheduling cases. Pretrial conferences are being held before the defense attorney has had a chance to fully investigate the case. Fewer issues are disposed of at pretrial conference with the result that more issues need resolution in open court. Some planning groups mentioned that the need to try a defendant soon after arrest results in a piecemeal trial when other defendants are involved in the same offense.

Other problems result from poor inter-district communications. Time limits can inadvertently be exceeded if an arrest in another district is not reported in a timely manner. Some planning groups expressed concern that, once the sanctions become effective, litigation of procedural issues may occupy valuable court time and delay disposition. For example, a proceeding might be frozen while the meaning of "the ends of justice" is argued.

2. Problems Encountered by the Defendant and Defense Counsel

Thirty-four planning groups indicated that the burdens of the Act are falling primarily on the defendant and defense counsel who have insufficient time to prepare a defense, particularly when an indictment precedes arrest. The United States Attorney has the advantage of preparing his case fully before indictment, whereas after the indictment is filed the defendant is placed under a time limit in preparing a defense.

¹ The Speedy Trial Act provides that "the (planning and implementation) process shall seek to avoid. . .prejudice to the prompt disposition of civil litigation. . ." 18 U.S.C. 3165(b).

Some planning groups suggested that the 10 day period from indictment to arraignment was too short for the defendant to choose counsel and arrange financing. Several planning groups mentioned that the 10 day period to arraignment was too short to decide on what plea to enter. The plans from eight districts indicated that pro forma not guilty pleas are being entered which results in some cases going to trial that might otherwise have been disposed of by plea. In addition, too little time to formulate a plea means a possible second appearance to change a plea which causes scheduling problems for the court and counsel. One district planning group suggested that if defendants believe they have not had a fair opportunity to prepare their defense the judicial system can only suffer.

Because of the short time available for trial preparation, defense attorneys need to devote their full attention to a few criminal cases and are not available for assignment to other criminal cases. In addition, the shortness of time increases the number of instances in which defense counsel has to refer a case to another lawyer due to a conflict with another criminal or civil proceeding. As a result of these problems several planning groups reported that representing criminal defendants in federal court was made unattractive to many defense attorneys.

3. Problems Encountered By The Prosecution

Several plans indicated a communication problem between law enforcement agencies and the U.S. Attorney's Office. Failure to communicate an arrest delayed presentment to the grand jury, reduced preparation time, and hence, reduced the likelihood of obtaining a timely indictment. Several of the planning groups indicated that the U.S. Attorney had adopted a policy of delaying arrest until after indictment. As indicated above, this practice affords the government an opportunity to prepare a case before the time limits commence to run, thus insuring that the government will not need to ask for a continuance.

Several plans mentioned that eve-of-trial change of pleas have been a problem. Guilty pleas entered shortly before trial result in substantial waste of time for the Assistant United States Attorneys. Reassignment of Assistant United States Attorneys because of scheduling conflicts brought about by the time constraints of the Act has been necessary.

4. Problems For The Clerks' Offices

The Act has imposed detailed reporting requirements on the clerks' office. Special reports must be prepared that reflect the various time intervals between steps in the judicial process. In addition, the clerks must keep records and report on time which is "excludable" within the meaning of the Act. A few planning groups reported confusion over the proper reporting procedures and the transmission of essential information by law enforcement officers. Twenty-six planning groups specifically commented on these problems.

5. Problems For The Marshal's Office

Only sixteen district court plans mentioned problems of the United States Marshal. The most frequently mentioned problem related to service of a summons in lieu of executing an arrest warrant. A shortage of manpower precludes personal service of a summons, and service by mail often is too slow to meet the time limits. One district complained about having to obtain and execute arrest warrants on defendants who failed to appear due to lack of notice, not because they were fugitives.

E. INCIDENCE OF, AND REASONS FOR, PERIODS OF DELAY

The Speedy Trial Act provides that certain periods of delay "shall be excluded in computing the time within which an information or an indictment must be filed, or in computing the time within which the trial of any such offense must commence." The Act further requires that the speedy trial plan adopted in each district court include information concerning "the incidence of and reasons for, periods of delay under section 3161(h)."

Seventeen specific events giving rise to periods of "excludable time" appear in the provisions of Section 3161(h) and other sections of the Speedy Trial Act. These events, or reasons for delay, are listed in the accompanying tabular summary showing the incidence of periods of "excludable delay" in cases disposed of from July 1, 1977 to June 30, 1978. The information for each district court is set out in Appendix B to this report.

In the year ending June 30, 1978 there were 41,419 defendants in cases disposed of during the year. In cases involving 31,300 defendants, or 75.6 percent, no periods of excludable delay occurred. In the remaining cases involving 10,119 defendants, there were 14,301 incidents or periods of excludable delay.

The reasons for the periods of excludable delay which occurred most frequently are these:

INCIDENTS OF EXCLUDABLE DELAY AND REASONS THEREFOR

Reason for Excludable Delay	Number of Incidents	Percentage
Total	14,301	100.0
Hearings on Pretrial Motions	4,861	34.0
Motions Held under Advisement	2,695	18.8
Continuances Granted in the Interest of Justice	2,316	16.2
Unavailability (includes fugitives) of defendant or essential witness	1,614	11.3
Examination or hearing for mental or physical disability	672	4.7
Prosecution deferred by mutual agreement	467	3.3
All other	1,676	11.7

Periods of excludable delay resulting from examination or treatment under the Narcotic Addict Rehabilitation Act were virtually nonexistent, occurring only 11 times out of 14,301 separate incidents of delay.

Of the 14,301 incidents or periods of excludable delay, 6,774 incidents or 47.4 percent, spanned ten days or less. Delay resulting from hearings on motions lasted ten days or less in 4,353 cases, or 89.5 percent of the 4,861 incidents of excludable delay.

F. DETENTION PRIOR TO PLEA, DISMISSAL OR COMMENCEMENT OF TRIAL

Of the 41,404 defendants whose cases were disposed of in 1978, there were 15,631 defendants, or 37.8 percent, who had been held in custody prior to trial, dismissal, or the entry of a plea of guilty or nolo contendere. "Custody" for the purposes of this report means custody in a local jail or detention facility for which a fee was paid to a local or state government by the United States, detention in a metropolitan correction center, or detention in other federal institutions. It does not include detention by state authorities on state criminal charges when a federal charge is also pending.

Of the 15,631 defendants detained in custody prior to trial 7,280 (or 46.6 percent) were detained 10 days or less. An additional 2,842 defendants, or 18.2 percent, were detained from 10 to 30 days, and 4,794 defendants, or 30.7 percent, were detained 30 to 90 days. Only 715 defendants, or 4.6 percent, were detained in excess of 90 days. A defendant who had served time in custody before making bail and who was later returned to custody for violation of the conditions of release is shown with both periods of detention added together.

Section 3164 mandates a 90 day time limit for the trial of a person detained in custody. This has not been a significant problem in any judicial district. However, in some districts section 3164 has been interpreted to permit the application of excludable time in computing the 90 day interim time limit for custody. The effect is that some defendants may in fact remain in custody for more than 90 days. Seven of the 94 district courts reported that during 1978 twelve defendants had been released from custody pursuant to 18 U.S.C. 3164(c) for failure to meet the requirement of trial within 90 days of detention.²

G. CASES DISPOSED OF BY PLEA OR TRIAL

Variations among districts in the percentage of defendants whose cases reach trial are substantial. Nationwide, 14.8 percent of all criminal cases disposed of in the twelve month period ending June 30, 1978 had trials. However, the percentage ranged from a low of 3.1 percent in the Western District of Louisiana to a high of 52.7 percent in the Southern District of Georgia. The types of cases comprising the caseload of a particular district greatly affect the number of defendants whose cases are likely to be tried. The dockets of the Western District of Louisiana, for example, include a large number of cases arising under the Migratory Bird Laws and other minor offenses which usually terminate in a guilty plea. The figures, by district, are shown in the accompanying table.

During 1978 there were 36,494 defendants in all district courts whose cases were disposed of by a plea of guilty or nolo contendere or after trial. In the district courts of the Ninth Circuit 12.4 percent of the defendants were tried and in the district courts of the First Circuit 18.2 percent reached trial. The district courts in which 30 percent or more of the defendants were tried (excluding dismissals) are as follows:

H. CHANGES IN PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

The district court plans adopted in 1978 include a report on "procedural techniques, innovations, systems, and other methods by which the trial or other disposition of criminal cases have been expedited or may be expedited." Few changes were reported. Some districts did formalize existing procedures, while others adopted procedures used in other districts, such as regularly scheduled arraignment days or scheduling arraignments with greater frequency. Because many defendants are unrepresented at arraignment, a pro forma not guilty plea is entered in some districts while others grant an extension of time. Some districts set the trial date at arraignment, while others set the trial date at a pre-trial conference. A few districts use any available judge or magistrate to conduct arraignments.

Six districts require a party filing a pre-trial motion to give a reasonable estimate of the delay which may result from the granting of the motion.

Thirty-five districts have set deadlines for filing pre-trial motions, which vary from a week to three weeks. The time allowed for filing a response varies from three to ten days.

Several planning groups reported that magistrates have been given greater duties to free up judge time for criminal cases. Magistrates are now frequently used to conduct arraignments, and take not guilty pleas. In addition, magistrates are being used in civil cases more frequently to conduct hearings, decide pre-trial motions, and preside over trials with the consent of the parties thus freeing judges for criminal trial work. In at least two districts, magistrates are being used more frequently to try minor offense cases within their trial jurisdiction.

Several districts are scheduling more frequent court sessions and making greater use of senior and visiting judges. Cases are also being assigned to judges, based on case complexity, in order to distribute the workload more evenly.

To increase the understanding of the Act, several districts have prepared and distributed a defense attorney's manual relating to the Speedy Trial Act. In addition, the Administrative Office "Speedy Trial Advisory" bulletins containing court interpretations of various provisions of the Act, are made available to the bar associations in four districts.

Clerks' offices are using standardized forms to comply with the record keeping function required by the Speedy Trial Act. The Courtran II System of consolidated docket entries under development by the Federal Judicial Center, was reported to be in use in six districts.

The United States Attorney's office in forty-five districts have also adopted a monitoring system to enable their offices to concentrate on cases nearing the time limits. In this regard the Act has brought about greater cooperation between the clerk's office, the United States Attorney and the public defenders.

I. ADDITIONAL RESOURCES NEEDED BY JULY 1, 1979 TO ACHIEVE COMPLIANCE WITH THE ACT

The Speedy Trial Act requires each district to state in its plan the additional resources needed to comply with the permanent time limits, effective July 1, 1979. The resources requested include: (1) those required on a permanent basis after July 1, 1979; (2) those required on a temporary basis to eliminate backlogs and to comply with the interim time limits prior to July 1, 1979.

Tables in Appendix C numbered 5 through 8 identify the additional resources requested by each district's planning group in the final plan submitted June 30, 1978. The resource requests are summarized below.

1. Additional District Judgeships

The district planning groups reported a need for 120 additional full-time judgeships, and 2 additional temporary judgeships. In most instances these requests are based on a pre-existing need resulting from increased caseloads over the years and a particular need to comply with speedy trial time limits. The Omnibus Judgeship bill, now before a House-Senate Conference Committee, would authorize 113 additional full-time judgeships and 4 temporary judgeships.

2. United States Magistrates

The planning groups expressed a need for 31 additional full-time United States magistrates. These requests will be reviewed on an individual basis by the Judicial Conference Committee on the Administration of the Magistrate System.

3. Court Reporters

Planning groups in 7 districts requested a total of 14 court reporters, 13 full-time and 1 temporary. These requests will be reviewed and evaluated by the Judicial Conference Subcommittee on Supporting Personnel in light of the additional court reporter positions needed under the judgeship bill.

4. Clerks of Court

The record keeping and statistical reporting duties imposed on the clerks' offices by the Speedy Trial Act are substantial. The 43 additional clerks are requested to keep the workload of the clerks' offices current. In addition, the planning groups requested 25 speedy trial clerks or coordinators to supervise the operation of the speedy trial plans in their courts.

5. Probation Officers

The planning groups requested 33 additional probation officers and 16 additional probation clerks. The need for additional positions will be reviewed by the appropriate Judicial Conference Committee.

6. Supporting Personnel

In addition to the other personnel requests, five districts requested a total of 11 law clerks, 1 district asked for 2 additional general clerks, and several districts indicated a need for additional secretarial assistance. The passage of the Omnibus Judgeship bill will require additional supporting staff for each new judgeship created, which may obviate these needs.

7. Department of Justice Personnel

The Attorney General has the responsibility of providing additional resources for the United States attorneys and United States marshals. The planning groups perceive need of 169 additional assistant United States attorneys, 8 paralegals, 4 law clerks, 4 clerks and 1 stenographer. There were requests for up to 160 additional United States marshals, 21 clerks and 10 more vehicles. Since the United States attorney is a member of the planning group in each district, it is expected that these resource needs will be transmitted to the Attorney General for the purpose of planning and budgeting.

8. Defender Services

The speedy trial plans included requests for 10 additional attorneys, 5 assistants and 5 investigators. The Middle District of Pennsylvania and the district of South Dakota expressed an interest in establishing a public defender or community defender office. These requests will be evaluated in accordance with the procedures for creating public defender offices under the Criminal Justice Act of 1964, as amended.

J. RECOMMENDATIONS FOR CHANGES IN STATUTES AND RULES

In September, 1977, the Judicial Conference of the United States recommended the following amendments to the Speedy Trial Act. These recommendations of the Conference received the general support of the planning groups, but many districts submitted suggestions which went beyond those of the Conference. With respect to time periods there were variances with what the Conference recommended. The amendments proposed by the speedy trial planning groups are set out in Appendix A.

RECOMMENDED SPEEDY TRIAL ACT AMENDMENTS APPROVED BY THE JUDICIAL CONFERENCE OF THE UNITED STATES

1. The ultimate time strictures of Section 3161 of 30 days from arrest to indictment, ten days from indictment to arraignment, and sixty days from indictment to trial be changed to sixty days from arrest to indictment, twenty days from indictment to arraignment, and not less than thirty nor more than one hundred days from arraignment to trial.
2. The exclusions of periods of delay enumerated in Section 3161(h) should also include the time computations concerned with arraignments, with retrial, and should specifically include the applicability of all exclusions during the interim period that will end July 1, 1979, as provided in Section 3164.
3. The word "examination," in Section 3161(h)(1)(A) should be changed to the words "motions for an examination".
4. The minimum time period of thirty days for trial following arraignment provided in Section 3161(b) should be waivable by the defendant.
5. Section 3161(c) should apply to complaints before magistrates so as to read: "The arraignment of a defendant charged in an information or indictment, or in a complaint before a magistrate, with the commission of an offense shall be held . . ."
6. The phrase in Section 3161 (c), "has been ordered held to answer and" should be eliminated.

The planning groups also suggested a few changes in the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure, particularly in Rule 7(a), "Use of Indictment or Information"; Rule 8(b), "Joinder of Defendants"; Rule 14, "Relief from Prejudicial Joinder"; Rule 20, "Transfer From the District for Plea and Sentence"; Rule 23 "Trial by Jury or by the Court"; and Rule 48 "Dismissal". The suggested changes to the criminal rules will be submitted to the Judicial Conference Advisory Committee on the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure for its consideration.

K. RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE DIRECTOR OF THE ADMINISTRATIVE OFFICE OF THE UNITED STATES COURTS

The final speedy trial plans required under the Act contain the recommendations of the district courts for general amendments to the Speedy Trial Act. The experience of the courts during the past two years under the interim speedy trial plans has been helpful in formulating suggested amendments to the Act. A majority of the courts approved the recommended speedy trial act amendments approved by the Judicial Conference of the United States at its September 1977 meeting.

THE RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE DIRECTOR ARE THESE:

1. That the Judicial Conference recommendations for changes in the Act be approved by the Congress;
2. That consideration be given by the Congress to the recommended legislative changes proposed by the planning groups and set out at Appendix A;
3. That the Omnibus Judgeship bill, currently under consideration by the Congress be enacted into law;
4. That the bill to improve access to the Federal courts by enlarging the civil and criminal jurisdiction of United States Magistrates be enacted into law;
5. That the Congress provide the necessary funds for the resources needed for speedy trial purposes in the appropriation act for the fiscal year 1980;
6. That the amendments to the Juror Selection and Service Act, recommended by the Judicial Conference of the United States be enacted into law.

Respectfully Submitted,

William E. Foley
Director

September 29, 1978

APPENDIX A

Changes in the Speedy Trial Act and other statutes recommended by the Speedy Trial Planning Groups in the United States district courts.

APPENDIX A
CHANGES IN STATUTES RECOMMENDED BY THE SPEEDY TRIAL
PLANNING GROUPS IN THE VARIOUS DISTRICT COURTS

SPEEDY TRIAL ACT (18 U.S.C. 3161-3174)

1. Time Limits Section 18 U.S.C. 3161

The Judicial Conference recommended that the allowable time interval from Arrest to Indictment be increased from 30 to 60 days; the interval from indictment to arraignment from 10 to 20 days; and the interval from arraignment to trial from 60 to 100 days. The district court planning groups made these further suggestions regarding time intervals;

- a. That the arrest-to-indictment interval be changed to 45 days, Indictment-to-Arraignment 15 days, and arraignment-to-trial 90, 120 or 180 days;
- b. That there be a single interval from arrest to trial.
- c. That the Act be amended to provide incentives for bettering the time limits, i.e., time saved in one interval can be applied to other intervals
- d. That trial start within 90 days unless the defendant agrees to be tried under the general provisions of the Speedy Trial Act as modified by the Judicial Conference's recommendation.
- e. That all capital offenses and conspiracy cases be given 120 days, or excluded entirely from the Act.
- f. There should be special time limits for certain types of cases. The classes most frequently mentioned were the following:
 1. Complex criminal actions in which court-authorized electronic interception of wire communications was used during the investigation,
 2. Mail fraud,
 3. Wire fraud,
 4. Violation of the Internal Revenue Code,
 5. Interstate travel or transportation in aid of a racketeering enterprise,
 6. Interstate transportation of wagering paraphernalia,
 7. Operating or participating in the operation of an illegal gambling business,
 8. Conspiracy,
 9. Political and sensational cases,
 10. Multi-defendant prosecution. More time is required for pretrial processing of these cases. It was, therefore, recommended that Section 3161(c), be amended to provide for separate or different time limits for such complex criminal actions.

11. That non-violent, less serious crimes be excluded, being outside the Act's purpose to "prevent recidivism."
12. Instead of exempting certain complex cases from the stricture of time limits, a court should be permitted to await developments in the case including the settlement of pretrial motions and then approve an extension of time either on agreement between the parties or as a matter of excludable time.

- g. No time limits should begin to run until the defendant is actually in the district in which he will be tried
- h. Each time limit should be evaluated to ascertain its applicability to districts with particular problems, such as transportation of defendants in large geographical districts

2. Other Suggestions Regarding Time Limits

- a. Amend section 3161(a) so that the setting of a trial date can be delayed until after discovery is completed and pretrial motions have been disposed of.
- b. Amend section 3161(b) to provide that presentment need not be made to a sitting grand jury unless it has been in session at least 10 days following the arrest or service of summons.
- c. Review the wording of section 3161(b) in light of possible conflicts with local rules that require indictment in a division, i.e., the division where the accused is to be indicted does not have a grand jury sitting within a 60 day time period, but another division in the same district does have a grand jury sitting.
- d. Amend Section 3161(b) to provide that if an individual is arrested for an offense for which no indictment or information is pending or is served with a summons issued on a complaint, an indictment or information shall be filed within 60 days.
- e. After the word "occurs" in Section 3161(c) insert the following language: "...Unless the court determines within such 10 day period that the defendant is physically or mentally incapable of being arraigned. In which case such 10 day period will commence whenever the court determines that the defendant is physically and mentally capable of being arraigned".
- f. Amend the Act to clarify that arraignment proceedings must be commenced but not necessarily completed within ten days.

- g. Clarify that commencement of trial is measured from completion of the arraignment.
- h. Allow deferral of indictment by consent when it would be conducted only for the pro forma entry of a not guilty plea before a magistrate.
- i. Provide that the prompt indictment requirement is met by bringing the case on for proposed waiver of indictment and the filing of an information; and if the waiver is declined, the time to file the indictment runs from the time of declination of waiver.
- j. Amend section 3161(e), relating to retrials to permit 180 days after all collateral attacks, rather than 60 days which can be enlarged to 180.
- k. Amend section 3161 by deleting obsolete sections (f) and (g) and enacting a new section (f) providing that if a defendant as to whom prosecution has been deferred fails to demonstrate his good conduct within the terms of the deferred prosecution agreement and the United States Attorney elects to rescind the agreement and reinstate the prosecution, the trial shall commence within 60 days of notice to the defendant that the deferral of prosecution has been revoked.
- l. Establish a time limit for arraignment on a superseding indictment.
- m. Calculate the time limits in weeks and calendar months rather than days.
- n. Exclude Saturdays and Sundays from the time limit computations.

3. Excludable Delay Section 18 U.S.C. 3161(h)

a. Amend Section 3161(h)(1)(A) to -- Include as excludable delay the time from the filing of a motion for examination of a defendant's mental competency or physical incapacity. Compute this period of excludable delay from the time that examinations are ordered to the time of a judicial finding as to the defendant's mental competency or physical incapacity.

-- Delete the phrase "delay resulting from" and add "plus such additional time as required with due diligence to effect such proceedings, including actual travel time necessary to transport the defendant to and from such proceedings".

-- Insert after "resulting from", "the filing of a motion for".

b. Amend Section 3161(h)(1)(C) to read, "trials and sentencing with respect to other charges against the defendant."

c. Amend Section 3161(h)(1)(E) to — Make it explicit that all delays due to briefing and disposition of pretrial motions are excludable whether or not a "hearing" is held;

— Make this section applicable to demands for disclosure of electronic surveillance.

— This exclusion should be deleted entirely or clarified to extend the exclusion to all delays incident to filing and court consideration of pretrial motions from date of filing until the court renders a decision thereon.

d. Amend Section 3161(h)(1)(F) to make it plain that any proceeding held in another district shall not begin the time limits under the Speedy Trial Act for the district issuing the complaint or the indictment.

e. Amend Section 3161(h)(2) to provide for an exclusion, not to exceed 30 days, for investigation by the probation office to determine whether the defendant is eligible for pretrial diversion or other negotiated plea.

f. Amend Section 3161(h)(3) to include any witness, government or defense.

g. Amend Section 3161(h)(6) to delete the reference to an offense "required" to be joined and clarify whether or not offenses are to be treated as related for speedy trial purposes only when they are "the same," or when they arise out of "the same" transaction or occurrence.

h. Amend Section 3161(h)(7) to exclude time when defendants are severed. It was suggested that the trial of the severed defendant be delayed until 60 days from the date the trial of the codefendant concluded.

i. Amend Section 3161(h)(8) to make it clear that an (h)(8) continuance can overlap other bases for excluding time; that it can be granted nunc pro tunc; and that the decision of the court is discretionary with review being limited to clear abuse situations.

— modify the prohibition against granting continuances because of "general congestion of the court's calendar" to permit continuances where such contingencies as judicial illness or other disability, lengthy prior cases, etc. temporarily require a postponement of trial or other proceedings.

— Include "seriousness of the offense" as a relevant factor in determining whether or not to grant a continuance.

— Add a subdivision (iv) to section 3161(h)(8)(B) as follows:

(iv) Whether the failure to grant such a continuance would unduly prejudice the efficient administration of justice by requiring the interruption of a trial in progress to make a judge available to hear the case within the periods of time established by this section.

j. Other Amendments to Section 3161(h)

1. Exclude time when, in a pending case, the ultimate legal issue is being litigated before the appellate court and the defendant has no objection to his trial being delayed until the issue is determined in the appellate proceedings.

2. Allow for excludable time, not greater than 30 days, when defendant's trial counsel, retained or appointed, is actually engaged in trial in state or federal court.

4. Guilty Plea Withdrawal (Section 3161(i))

If a defendant tenders a plea of guilty or nolo contendere and later withdraws that tender, commencement of trial should be fixed at 60 days following withdrawal of the tender.

5. Sanctions and Waiver (Section 3162)

Indicate clearly that the sanctions apply to the interval from indictment or first appearance to arraignment, and to retrials.

Repeal the sanctions against counsel and permit the courts to impose whatever sanctions they deem appropriate.

Provide that the parties may, by mutual consent, waive the time limitations of the Act subject to the approval of the court. Rewrite the waiver provisions to clearly compel the defendant to move for dismissal at least 10 days before the scheduled trial date if he contends that the time for trial has elapsed. If the time to trial expires within the 10 day period preceding the scheduled trial, the defendant should be compelled to move for dismissal on the date he contends the trial should have commenced. Two planning groups requested a determination of whether or not the rights provided in the Act are waivable.

6. Effective Dates (Section 3163)

a. Postpone the effective date of the sanctions for another year to allow the courts to gain more experience with the permanent time limits and to give Congress more time to consider amendments.

7. Interim Limits (Section 3164)

Continue priority for in-custody defendants particularly if the time limits are lengthened. The statute should make it clear that the excludable time limitations of 18 U.S.C. 3161(h) are applicable to custody time.

8. Planning process (Section 3168)

The speedy trial planning groups should continue to operate so as to evaluate the local plan and make recommendations. It was also recommended that the position of compensated reporter be extended and that a committee of circuit judges and reporters from each district study the impact of the Act and devise procedures, rules and methods for meeting its requirements.

9. Definitions (Section 3172)

a. Several planning groups recommended that minor offenses be eliminated from coverage.

b. Offenses created by territorial legislatures should be included in the definition of offense.

10. Judicial Emergencies (Section 3174)

Procedures for resolving a judicial emergency as set forth in section 3174 should be reviewed to establish a more expeditious manner of processing. Because the judicial emergency provision is so cumbersome, one planning group recommended that the Chief Judge of a district have authority to suspend time limits up to 60 days with the Circuit Council having authority to reverse such an order or to extend the suspension to six months. Another planning group suggested that final authority to suspend time limits should rest with the Judicial Council of the Circuit rather than with the Judicial Conference of the United States. Two planning groups proposed that the Judicial Conference of the United States have a 2 year suspension authority.

11. Other Recommendations

Eleven planning groups recommended repeal of the Act. One district planning group recommended that, if not repealed, the Act be amended to incorporate the more flexible standards of the Sixth Amendment. Four planning groups wanted a return to the Rule 50(b) plans.

OTHER STATUTES

a. The Criminal Justice Act, Title 18 U.S.C. 3006 (A)(e), should be amended to increase the amount payable to defendants counsel for case preparation.

b. Amend Title 42 U.S.C. 1983 to require exhaustion of state remedies before a complaint in a civil rights action can be filed in federal court.

c. Amend the Juror Selection and Service Act, Title 28 U.S.C. 1271 to increase the juror attendance fee and expense allowances.

d. It was recommended that Title 18 U.S.C. 3401(f) be amended to give a magistrate authority to try cases involving possible penalties of up to one year imprisonment and $5,000.00 fine without the necessity of waiver by the defendant. The magistrate should also have authority to conduct jury trials of such offenses and to accept pleas of guilty in all cases.

APPENDIX B

The following tables show the national, circuit and district totals for the incidence of and reasons for delay, during the period July 1, 1977 through June 30, 1978, under provisions of Title 18 U.S.C. Section 3161(h).

Each table shows the interval in which excludable delay occurs, the number of defendants with and without excludable time, and the incidents of excludable time by category. All excludable time of the same kind in the same interval is added together. That is, three motions under advisement in the third interval is totaled and shown as only one motion under advisement.

The tables are comparable with those appearing in Volume II of the 1977 report on the Implementation of the Speedy Trial Act of 1974.

INTRODUCTION TO APPENDICES D, E, F, AND G

The following tables set out the time elapsing between stages of the criminal judicial process during the first two years under the Speedy Trial Act. They are designed to indicate the extent of which the courts have been able to meet the three intervals specified in the Act during the first two transitional years. The Act established a phase-in period beginning July 1, 1976 that provided a maximum period of 60 days between arrest and indictment and 180 days between arraignment and trial. In the second year, beginning July 1, 1977, these time limits were reduced to 45 days between arrest and indictment and 120 days between arraignment and trial. The time period between indictment and arraignment has remained constant at 10 days.

For the 1977 time limits the tables show interval data only for intervals actually begun and terminated during the year ending June 30, 1978. All time interval data is net time, that is, excludable time has been subtracted.

APPENDIX D

Time (in days) between arrest or service of summons to indictment or information for defendants disposed of in the United States District Courts for Speedy Trial Years beginning July 1, 1976 and July 1, 1977. For Speedy Trial Year beginning July 1, 1976, the time interval was 60 days; for the Speedy Trial Year beginning July 1, 1977, the time interval was 45 days.
