Dear Jim; Eileen, or Tom

The enclosed material I hope you and your readers will find to be a welcome edition in researching areas of violence. This document required almost 6 months of time to gather in an attempt to reason the many causes to violence.

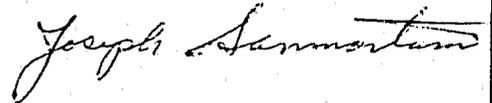

At present, I am reviewing three books for Law Enforcement News of New York. If you are ever asked if you know of an individual who reviews original manuscripts or texts for free, please give my name.

The enclosed letter will act as a reference for myself or you may check with the Department of State, Security Division, 22nd and C Streets Rm. 2435, Wash, D.C. 20520.

My desire as an individual attempting to understand crime and violence is to read as much material on the subject as possible.

Now, that I have taken your valuable time, let me thank you for your consideration of this material and look forward to your response.

Sincerely,

J.P. Sammartano

SUBJECT: Recommendation for Employment

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

I strongly recommend, without reservation, that Joseph P. Sammartano be selected for employment at his earliest date of availability.

Joseph Sammartano has been under my direct supervision for the past two years as project officer and support writer. Even though his current job position is authorized to an individual of much higher rank, he was individually selected due to his personal knowledge of police, corrections, physical security, and his research ability to analyze and design. His accomplishments are many; however, his most recent is the analysis, design, and development of lesson plans to accommodate a resident training course concerning Counter Terrorist Operations. The lesson plans consist of the terrorist ideologies, composition of terrorist forces, terrorist tactics, military police training, the operation to combat terrorist activities, command relationships, jurisdiction, and reporting procedures between the U.S. Army, the State Department and the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI). Additionally, his research efforts and documentation were utilized by the undersigned as an appendix to a revised Military Police Corps Doctrinal Manual on Installation Physical Security. His efforts were further submitted to the Law Enforcement Division, Department of Army, Washington, D.C., for subsequent review. The response was of appreciation/commendation and the material is now utilized Army wide.

In addition, he developed lesson plans entailing several hours of resident instruction in computer security. Analysis, design and development of his critical projects were in accordance with criterion-referenced instruction and instructional systems develop-methodology.

SUBJECT: Recommendation for Employment

Joseph Sammartano has the potential for continued outstanding performance in any position in which he is an incumbent. It is unfortunate that the present system is unable to retain him at a rank equal to his ability. He continually seeks additional responsibility and is a self-generator of training concepts and designs. It will be a distinct benefit to the agency who selects this individual for employment. He is a super individual and is truly an outstanding professional.
