Acknowledgments

We wish to express our appreciation to the staff from the agencies listed in this directory, who when contacted either by phone or letter, generously gave their time to provide current information about their agencies.

Next, we thank the Nineline Database Department for their hard work and diligence. Under the direction of Lynne Connelly, our Database Coordinator, assisted by David Rodway, the staff and volunteers worked long hours making calls, entering and revising information. Special thanks to volunteers Lisa Schwab, Porzia Danisi, Barbara Jocz, MaryEllen Victor, Dante Parete, Pat McMahon, and Will Lusick.

Next, we'd like to thank John Russo and Petre Drula, from the Covenant House Data Processing Department, who made it possible to print out the information in its current form.

Lastly, we'd like to thank the Nineline crisis workers. Without the information they discovered while helping callers, out-of-date information or newly discovered agencies, our directory would not be as accurate or complete as it is.

Introduction

Since Covenant House Nineline opened in 1987, we have worked with over 525,000 callers in crisis and have made more than 175,000 referrals. This experience has highlighted the importance of having accurate information at our fingertips so we can find and make appropriate referrals for our callers. We have worked with staff from thousands of organizations who are willing to go out of their way to assist our callers, and know how successful we can be when we work together.

Over the years we have developed a database of over 26,000 resources to assist youth and adults in crisis situations. Starting with the information that was in the 1989 edition of the National Directory of Hotline and Crisis Intervention Centers, we added agencies obtained from numerous sources with a particular focus on emergency services for runaways and homeless youth and adults.

Keeping up-to-date and accurate information on our referral agencies is a monumental task. Because this information is critical to our effectiveness, the Database Department works very hard to keep it current.

What's included in the Directory

This new edition of the National Directory of Hotlines and Crisis Intervention Centers is an extraction from the 26,000 agencies currently in the computerized Nineline database used by our crisis workers. The directory has four sections:

1. National Hotlines includes those services that are available nationally, they may or may not have an 800 toll-free number.
2. Emergency Services and Local Hotlines includes shelters and related services for runaway/homeless/missing youth; emergency shelters and assistance for survivors of domestic violence and rape and adults in general; emergency assistance such as food, clothing, transportation, financial assistance and outreach; and local hotlines and information and referral lines.
3. Child Abuse Reporting Numbers includes state name and address and centralized or regional telephone numbers for reporting child abuse in each state. If there is a state 800 number this is included along with a number to use when calling from out-of-state. We indicate if there are more localized reporting numbers.
4. Appendix includes state abbreviation key, a city-county key and an order form.

How to Read the Entries

- Statewide hotlines appear at the beginning of each state listing and are noted by the word "Statewide" above the agency name. After the statewide agencies, the listing is alphabetical by city name.
- Address lines stating "Confidential" mean the agency has asked that their address not be given out or listed in the directory.
- Two phone numbers are listed per entry. The office phone, in general, is available on the weekdays during daytime hours. The referral phone may or may not have different hours, it should be called when making referrals. If we do not have an office phone specified, we assume that the office and referral numbers are the same. Except for the Nationwide Hotline section (part 1), any 800 number listed in the description section is likely to be reachable from within the state or the area.
- "REF HOURS" indicates the hours when a referral can be made to the agency.
- Ages Served indicates "ALL AGES" if there are no specific age criteria for using the services. Otherwise an age range is indicated, e.g., 1 to 18 or 18 to 99. A "1" means from birth and "99" means there is no specific upper age limit. "18" means through a person's 18th year, or until they reach 19.
- The "Sex" category indicates the clients gender. In our database, only one option can be chosen so if an agency assists children, single females and males, and women with children then "both" are indicated in the sex category. For more detailed information on client eligibility read the agency description.
- The "Fee" category lists one, some, or all of the following: Free, Sliding, Medicaid, 3rd Party, See Below, or specific information on how much it costs to receive services.
- The agency description offers a brief listing of the primary services provided and notes the target population. Other information which may be helpful in determining appropriate referrals may also be included.

How We Gathered Information

We began gathering updated information for this directory in January 1993 and continued to make changes as we learned of new information through December 1994. Most of the information for this printing was gathered via telephone; the rest by mail using agency update forms. All agencies were asked for two references which were then checked by telephone.

Covenant House Nineline has compiled this directory as a public service in an attempt to gather in one place a listing of agencies whose purpose is to provide the services set forth.

Covenant House makes no representations or recommendations as to the programs provided by the agencies and notes that this is not an all-inclusive list and that many reputable agencies may not appear in this directory. The content of the entries differs as a result of varying amounts of information provided by the contacts at each agency and the numerous individuals who worked at updating this directory. We depend on the users to provide us with new and more complete information and a more accurate picture of agency services if necessary. We view this manual as an evolving document, its purpose is to provide an aid to the users.
