

NATIONAL INSTITUTE OF JUSTICE

GRADUATE FELLOWSHIP

SOCIAL AND BEHAVIORAL SCIENCES

Apply for NIJ's Graduate Research Fellowship (GRF) in Social and Behavioral Sciences. Through this solicitation, NIJ is expanding the future pool of young researchers and helping to develop objective, independent, evidence-based knowledge and tools to meet the challenges presented by crime and justice. This program offers $32,000 to outstanding and promising doctoral students to help them with dissertation research support.

To learn more about the GRF program and see examples of research conducted by past and present fellows, visit NIJ.gov/GRF-SBS, or email GRF@usdoj.gov.

Proposal Deadline: December 15, 2015

Applications must be submitted via Grants.gov by the academic institution, which must be a fully accredited, doctoral degree-granting institution in the United States or its territories.

Eligibility

For the GRF Program in the Social and Behavioral Sciences, NIJ seeks applications from fully-accredited academic institutions in the U.S. that support doctoral students who have completed, or are near completion of, all Ph.D. degree requirements except the research, writing and final defense of a dissertation.

Qualified disciplines include, among others:

- Criminology
- Education
- Economics
- Political Science
- Criminal Justice
- Psychology
- Sociology
- Public Health
- Family and Human Development
- Public Administration
- Public Policy

